Railways To Put Wage Restoration Scheme In Effect

Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Inform Union Spokesman Board's Recommendations Will Be Followed, With First 1 per Cent Added As From February 1

Poll on Strike Is Continuing

Canadian Press
Montreal, Feb. 5.—The Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways will take immediate steps to implement the recommendations of the Maclean Conciliation Board to reduce wage cuts from 10 to 9 per cent effective February 1, according to a letter received today by Howard B. Chase, spokesman for seventeen railway running trades which are being polled for a general strike.

"The railways are prepared to accept the recommendations of the board as basis for an agreement between the railways and employees for adjustment of the dispute," says the letter, signed by Sir Edward Beatty, president of the C.P.R., and S. J. Hungerford, president of the C.N.R. The letter also was sent to W. M. Dickson, Deputy Minister of Labor, Ottawa.

Mr. Chase forecast a 98 per cent strike vote from the 117,000 employees involved in the balloting. "I wouldn't be surprised if the vote is unanimous," he said.

Each union must decide its own fate with respect to a strike, said Mr. Chase. If one union should vote not to strike, however, it would not affect the decision of the others to walk out.

A battery of clerks rushed ballots into the mails today from the union headquarters here. The ballots are returnable February 28, and announcement of results is expected during the first week of March.

ANSWER INQUIRY

The text of the statement of the railway executives follows:

FORTIN PLAN KEPT SECRET

Will Be Made Public Only When Discussions Completed; Camera Meetings

Closeted in a hotel room, the City Council today considered the Fortin report. Mayor McGavin, members of the council, D. A. Macdonald, city comptroller-treasurer; H. S. Pringle, city solicitor, and C. S. Henley, who was appointed last year as the city's special fiscal agent, discussed with Jules E. Fortin, bondholders representative, the clauses of his proposal to the city on the debt re-adjustment plan.

After two and one-half hours in camera, the meeting adjourned for lunch, to resume its deliberations again at 2:30 o'clock.

The council issued only one statement when it rose—the details of the plan will not be released to the public until the issue is completed.

HENLEY SCHEME OUT

To a reporter, waiting in the corridor for a statement, the voice of Jules Fortin carried through the door to the effect his plan was not connected with the Henley scheme.

Prior to his words, an aderman had asked if any relationship existed between the two plans.

"I have not consulted Mr. Henley at all in this scheme," Mr. Fortin replied.

When the meeting adjourned and the question was raised over advising the taxpayers of the contents of the plan, one alderman confessed his inability to understand it. Another felt the public should not get half a story and the entire information could not be available until the complete issue was thrashed out.

SEVERAL MEETINGS

Mr. Fortin arrived in Victoria on Tuesday last. He submitted his proposals to the city for typing on Wednesday. On Wednesday afternoon the Mayor, the Finance Committee Chairman Hunter, Mr. Macdonald and Mr. Henley discussed the Fortin proposals at a meeting in the Empress Hotel. Yesterday afternoon Mr. Macdonald explained the plan to members of the finance committee meeting at a camera session. Today the remainder of the council was informed of the terms.

After four sessions the public is still without information on the plan.

In Flight Before River Flood Menace

Stark loneliness and despair were etched deeply into this scene—caught by a cameraman as a New Madrid, Missouri, farmer and his family fled, they hardly knew where, before a man-made flood between New Madrid and Cairo, Ill. The farmer's movable possessions were in the wagon. His wife and children led in the family auto. The dog brought up a forlorn rear guard. The flooding of the area was part of the measures taken to keep the swollen Mississippi from breaking great stretches of dikes.

Brazil Drought Menaces Many

Canadian Press from Havana
Rio de Janeiro, Feb. 5.—Some 5,000 people fleeing the drought-ridden state of Ceara have arrived at the village of Itapicoca seeking relief, it was reported here today. Most of them were near starvation.

REICH ENVOY CAUSES STIR

JOACHIM VON RIBBENTROP
German Ambassador to Great Britain.

Associated Press
London, Jan. 5.—Joachim von Ribbentrop, German ambassador to Great Britain, created a sensation in diplomatic circles yesterday by greeting King George with the Nazi salute instead of a formal bow when he presented his credentials at Buckingham Palace.

One source said Von Ribbentrop raised his right arm in front of him, palm down and fingers outstretched, in the Nazi salute and, in ringing tones, said "Heil Hitler."

King George was said to have answered the salutation with the prescribed bow.

GREETING REPEATED

Another source said the German envoy clicked his heels smartly, raised his arm in the salute, took several strides forward and then repeated the Nazi greeting twice more. This observer, however, did not mention hearing the "Heil Hitler."

Some London newspapers played up the incident today. Others ignored it.

CUSTOMS RECOGNIZED

One, however, declared Von Ribbentrop was perfectly within his rights in giving the German salutation, because the Court of Saint James recognizes the customs of the country from which the envoy comes.

It recalled an eastern diplomat who greeted Queen Victoria by bumping his head on the floor.

Montreal Police Hunt Murderer

Canadian Press
Montreal, Feb. 5.—Police spread a dragnet through the city today for a bandit who killed Paul Gaudette, thirty-five, to get at a night's "take" in the filling-station attendant's cash register.

The body of Gaudette, a bullet through the heart and two in the abdomen, was found inside the doorway of the station office early today by three employees of a nearby filling station.

Snowstorm Disrupts All Communication; Traffic Is Delayed

Two Indians Killed and Three Hurt When Weight of Snow Collapses Roof of Koksilah Home; Repair Crews Work feverishly to Restore Services to Island Centres; Heavy Snow on Malahat But Road Is Passable in Emergency

Large crews of repair men, concentrating their efforts on telephone, telegraph and electric power lines and highways, worked feverishly today to restore communication between Victoria and Up-island centres south of Nanaimo as a result of this week's snowstorm which swept practically the whole of the island.

A survey of the situation today, made difficult by lack of communication, indicated the death of two Indians, injuries to three others, paralyzed traffic at various sections of the Island Highway, disrupted light and power service in Ladysmith and Duncan, and only partial telephone service on the island north of Colwood or south of Nanaimo, directly due to the storm.

When roof of an Indian dance hall at Koksilah collapsed from the weight of snow yesterday, it was reported Mrs. Anna Michel, ninety years old, and her granddaughter, Lydia, eight, were killed. Mrs. Andrew Michel suffered head injuries. George Tom received chest injuries and Manson George was reported to have broken his leg in the accident. The injured three are in King's Daughters Hospital at Duncan. The Indians were taking temporary refuge in the hall from the snowstorm.

A coroner's inquest which followed the accident decided it was due to faulty construction of the roof, which measured ninety by fifty feet.

Numerous motor cars and private passenger machines were reported stalled at various points along the Island Highway. The Victoria Times delivery truck reached Nanaimo at 9:30 o'clock last night, after a hazardous trip north.

The Nanaimo bus, driven by Art Manson, which left Nanaimo at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, reached the city at 6:30 o'clock last night. The E. & N. train, due in at 5 o'clock, reached the city fifteen minutes before midnight.

Bus drivers and train engineers reported traffic conditions bad along the whole route. Everywhere there were fallen trees and poles and at places the drivers were forced to dig snow away to get through.

COLD WEATHER SEEMS ENDED

Victorians were pretty well "out of the woods," as far as the weather was concerned this morning, as forecasters at the Gonzales Hill Observatory said they thought milder days were in store for the city during the remainder of the month.

The minimum temperature this morning was 34 degrees.

By noon the temperature had risen to 39 degrees, and with a hint of sunshine, there was every possibility it would rise still higher during the afternoon.

Mainland Roads Impassable

Heavy Snowdrifts in Fraser Valley; Vancouver Streets a Quagmire

Vancouver, Feb. 5.—Snow flurries over southern British Columbia today piled deeper drifts on Fraser Valley highways than were threatened with complete blockade yesterday by the heaviest snow of the winter. Practically all side roads in the district were impassable to motor traffic today and a number of schools closed.

Little promise of relief was seen in the official weather forecast, which predicted "moderate variable winds, cloudy and much the same temperature."

Kamloops, farther east on the Canadian Pacific Railway line, reported more snow today, accompanied by a light wind. All highways to that city were blocked yesterday as a twenty-mile-an-hour wind accompanied the storm.

Falls fell in Vancouver last night, turning five inches of fresh snow to slush on the streets. The temperature here remained mild, ranging between 33 and 38 above. Police answered numerous false burglar alarms as melting snow short-circuited alarm systems.

Prince George, in the northern interior of the province, reported clear cold weather with a low of 22 below over night.

From three to six inches of snow fell in the Okanagan Valley and low temperatures of from 16 to 18 above were reported.

WAR MEMORIAL

Ottawa, Feb. 5 (Canadian Press).—Consideration will be given by the government to the suggestion of J. A. Pinard, Liberal, Ottawa East, a full-size wooden model of the National War Memorial be erected to enable choice of a suitable site here. Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, Minister of Public Works, told the House of Commons. The minister said the monument will be sixty-seven feet high and fifty-two feet long. The foundation will be on solid rock.

Defence Lines Of Malaga Holding

Spanish Loyalists Report Insurgents' Attempt to Gain Southern Port Checked

Associated Press
Malaga, Spain, Feb. 5.—Insurgent efforts to break through this strategic port city's defence lines were halted today by determined Socialist resistance.

Government troops held firm on three fronts, though buffeted by simultaneous attacks of the Fascist southern army's combined land, air and sea push against the provincial capital.

The Socialist battalions dominated the communications from Alora, only eighteen miles to the west, after a counter-attack in force had inflicted heavy losses on the insurgent besiegers.

After desperate fighting throughout yesterday in the Alora sector, nightfall found the Socialist forces still upholding the heights commanding the important railway entering Malaga from the northwest.

RESUME MADRID DRIVE

Madrid, Feb. 5 (Canadian Press from Havana).—Militiamen again cut into the enemy wedge in University City early today with a sudden attack which forced the insurgents to abandon their positions at La Escalilla, within the university grounds.

The insurgents desperately attempted to retake the salient, but without success.

AFTER BARRAGE
Shock troops stationed on the edge of West Park, which was cleared of insurgents several days ago, attacked shortly after the government's artillery barrage lifted at midnight. The insurgent trenches were only 100 yards away, but they commanded the terrain and left the government troops exposed to machine-gun fire.

Floods Feared If Thaw Sudden

Flood conditions on Vancouver Island and the Lower Mainland are likely to follow a sharp rise in temperature or rain after the heavy snowfall of the last twenty-four hours, the public works department fears.

"We are ready to meet the emergency if it arises," said Arthur Dixon, chief engineer, today. "There is nothing we can do to avert it at the moment. We are only hoping the thaw will be gradual. At present we are working full steam to keep all the roads passable."

MARKED GAIN IN POPE'S HEALTH

Associated Press
Vatican City, Feb. 5.—A "notable" improvement in the condition of Pope Pius was announced today in an official bulletin in the Vatican newspaper, Osservatore Romano, commemorating the fifteenth anniversary of the Pope's election, to be observed tomorrow.

The bulletin said: "On the eve of the fortunate anniversary of the elevation of His Holiness to the pontifical throne, we are glad to announce that the condition of His Holiness' health are notably improved."

German Colonies Request To Britain

Canadian Press from Havana
Nanking, Feb. 5.—Miss Alethea Knatchbull-Hugessen, daughter of the British ambassador to China, was slightly wounded by a stray bullet fired by an unknown person while she was riding in the outskirts of the city today.

Ambassador von Ribbentrop Expected Soon to Lay Proposal for Return of Areas Before Government at London

By GEORGE HANBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Writer
London, Feb. 5.—Joachim von Ribbentrop, German ambassador, it was learned today, will shortly submit to the British government a request for the return to Germany of her pre-war colonies.

He probably will see Viscount Halifax, who is to be Acting Foreign Secretary during Anthony Eden's absence at Monte Carlo this coming week.

Exports Vary

Tanganyika, formerly German East Africa, exports sisal, cotton, coffee, ground nuts, beeswax, diamonds and gold. The Cameroons, now administered as part of Nigeria, export cocoa, palm oil and kernels, rubber and bananas. It is largely on account of the vegetable oils that Germany wants the Cameroons back. They are regarded as a valuable substitute for animal fats, of which Germany is short.

Both Tanganyika and the Cameroons are held by Britain under "B" League of Nations mandates, which provide that the mandatory power guarantees freedom of conscience and religion subject only to the maintenance of public order and morals.

HARBORS ON U.S. COAST NOW ACTIVE

Seattle Shares With San Francisco and Other Ports in Rush to Move Cargoes Tied Up by Strike Settled Yesterday After Ninety-eight Days; Owners in Friendly Contests to Get Their Ships Away in First Groups

Associated Press

Seattle, Feb. 5.—Shipowners and maritime union officials saw revival of activity at United States Pacific Northwest waterfronts today as the first crews were dispatched to the piers in more than three months.

Maritime Federation heads in Seattle said nearly all of the city's 4,000 dock workers and seamen, including hundreds idle before the Pacific Coast strike began ninety-nine days ago, would be put to work.

NINETY-THREE ON TRIAL IN HUNGARY

Canadian Press from Havana
Kis-Cards, Hungary, Feb. 5.—The story of a plotted "march on Budapest" last April by hundreds of peasant followers of the Fascist agitator Zoltan Borszomenyi was retold in court here today when ninety-three members of the banned "Cross and Scythe" organization went on trial.

Sixteen of the 109 arrested in this district were sentenced yesterday to light terms ranging from seven days to six months.

The current series of trials follows those of last June, when 113 were tried at Bakes. Four were committed to jail then and the others given suspended sentences.

James Engstrom, secretary of District Council No. 1, Maritime Federation, said seamen would not carry discharge books required under the Maritime Safety Bill, workers asserting the provision permits blacklisting.

Olympia reported the Pacific Pioneer and the Marjonia were being worked today by 145 longshoremen, and a third ship, the American Eagle, without a crew, had steam up and would be loaded starting tomorrow.

PLANE CONTINUES HOP AFTER STORM

Canadian Press
Prince George, B.C., Feb. 5.—Pilot Chet Brown, flying to Seattle from Alaska with ten passengers, left this northern British Columbia "center" for his destination at 11:15 a.m. today after being grounded here by snowstorms.

The plane left Anchorage, Alaska, on Sunday, but was forced down at Telegraph Creek, B.C., north of Prince Rupert. He flew here Wednesday.

TACOMA MILLS BUSY

Tacoma reported virtually all lumber mills working again; two vessels were discharging at the smelter; the San Clemente was loading to sail tomorrow, three ships were due in port and a dozen more listed to arrive next week.

RUSHING BACK TO WORK

Associated Press
San Francisco, Feb. 5.—The ninety-eight-day United States Pacific Coast maritime strike that cost an estimated $686,000,000, paralyzed commerce on the sea and slowed industry on land, dissolved today into a rush back to work by the 40,000 strikers who had tied up 239 ships.

Disputes involving waterfront workers remained unsettled at two ports, but signing of new contracts last night by shipowners and the seven striking marine unions closed the United States' costliest maritime labor dispute.

Shipowners vied with each other to get the first vessels under way. Longshoremen and seamen besieged hiring headquarters for available jobs. Merchants competed for service in obtaining strike-bound cargoes or booking space for shipments.

Meteorologist Is Threatened

Predicted Rain Did Not Arrive at Los Angeles; Letter Sent to Forecaster

Associated Press
Los Angeles, Feb. 5.—L. H. Daingerfield, federal meteorologist, received this note through the mail:

"You said it was going to rain and it didn't. Well, I'm sick and tired of it, and if you make any more mistakes your life won't be worth a nickel. I'm coming down there and kill you and we'll get a weatherman who knows enough to come in out of the rain."

After turning the note over to federal agents, Mr. Daingerfield made his periodic forecast, it was: "Unsettled."

FRIARS PUT ON TRIAL IN SPAIN

Sixty in El Escorial Monastery Will Appear Before People's Court

Associated Press
Madrid, Feb. 5.—A special "people's court" will sit in judgment on sixty Augustine friars who dwell in El Escorial monastery built by gloomy King Philip II nearly 400 years ago, the government announced today.

The monks are charged with holding "anti-government tendencies" in the civil war which has torn Spain for nearly seven months. So far the government has kept possession of El Escorial, northwest of Madrid, despite encirclement and siege by insurgent armies.

The friars will be tried by a court made up of a judge and two "representatives of the people." The court's functions will begin next Monday, and it has been instructed to conclude the trial within twenty days. Nearly 1,500 others are similarly

READS ORDER

Capt. Phil Pack, press representative of the national guard, who participated in a conference at which the writs of attachment were issued, said the sheriff had gone to Fisher Plant No. 2 to read the order to approximately 200 "sit-in" strikers.

Capt. Pack said there would be no physical attempt to enforce the writ for the present.

The writ, addressed to the sheriff, said: "You are commanded to attach the bodies of all the occupants of Fisher Body Plants Nos. 1 and 2."

The writs were issued under an injunction granted last Tuesday against the sit-down strikers by Judge Paul V. Gaudet.

REGENCY BILL IS APPROVED

Immigration Caution Urged

Premier of Alberta Says People
Who Become Public
Charges Not Wanted

Edmonton, Feb. 5.—Premier William Aberhart believes immigrants to Canada should be selected on their ability to take care of themselves financially and not become public charges.

Commenting yesterday on the Hornby land settlement scheme, the Alberta Premier said: "I told General Hornby (of Lethbridge, Alberta, the promoter of the scheme) I was most favorable to the British settler, but that it was important the detailed arrangements be not such as to leave the immigrants stranded in the west after four or five years with no possibility of sustaining themselves. It appears to me that our own citizens should first be provided for before we undertake to encourage others to come who would become charges of governments and municipalities."

The Alberta Premier's comment was prompted by a statement made in Toronto by G. C. Neff, of Grenfell, Sask., chairman of the Saskatchewan Immigration and Settlement Committee, that Mr. Aberhart had approved verbally of the Hornby plan.

Grant to Ex-king Being Opposed

London, Feb. 5.—Opposition to granting a pension to former King Edward was reported authoritatively today.

An informed source said Liberal and Labor leaders in Parliament had notified Prime Minister Baldwin of their objection to the government proposal.

The reported difficulty in settling this problem was discussed at two cabinet meetings on Wednesday, it was said in this quarter.

In view of Edward's surrender of most of his official income, the government was said to have decided to include an allowance with the allowances for the King and other members of the House of Windsor in the civil list.

An annual allowance of £25,000 ($125,000) was reported sought for the Duke of Windsor.

Victorian Is on Surveyors' Board

Ottawa, Feb. 5.—A. C. Tremblay, Sheppard of the Department of Mines and Resources, was elected president of the Canadian Institute of Surveying at the closing session here yesterday. He succeeds Lieut.-Col. E. L. M. Burns of Montreal.

Other officers elected: Vice-presidents, B. W. Waugh and E. M. Medlen, Ottawa; secretary-treasurer, W. L. MacLachlan, Ottawa. Members of the council include S. E. McColl, Winnipeg; H. Phillips, Saskatoon; George MacMillan, Medicine Hat; F. C. Swannell, Victoria.

British Commons Passes Measure and Sends It to House of Lords

London, Feb. 5.—The amended Regency Bill was approved without division in the House of Commons yesterday after Attorney-General Sir Donald Somervell had stated the Dominions had agreed to it.

"The Dominions have been kept informed and have agreed to our passing a bill for the United Kingdom," he said. "The exact effect the bill will have on them (the Dominions), in our view, is a matter for them to consider and if any statement is desired to be made, it is for them to make it."

"It would be very unwise," he added, "for the United Kingdom government to make statements on this matter."

The bill as sent to the House of Lords provides, briefly, for appointment of a regency in the event of a sovereign becoming wholly incapacitated or of a sovereign according to the throne while under the age of eighteen years. The regent would be the adult next in line of succession. That is, should the present King become incapacitated or die before Princess Elizabeth reaches the age of eighteen, the regent would be the Duke of Gloucester, the King's brother.

DECISION BY THREE
Labor assailed provisions of the bill which would form a committee of six, any three of whom could act, to decide whether or not a sovereign was wholly incapacitated.

Finally an amendment was carried deleting from the group the person who would be regent, leaving the group to be comprised of the husband or wife of the sovereign. If more than eighteen years of age, the Lord Chancellor, the Speaker of the House of Commons, the Lord Chief Justice and the Master of the Rolls. Any three or more of these persons could act.

At the instance of D. G. Logan, Labor, the Home Secretary, Sir John Simon, expressed willingness to insure that the advice of a physician would be sought before the group should reach a decision as to the sovereign's capacity to act.

DURING THE DEBATE

J. C. Ede, Labor, objected to the clause stating the sovereign attained his or her majority at the age of eighteen. This, he said, was an exceptional age for one particular person in the state, and required justification in these days when the ordinary citizen was not allowed to exercise the franchise until he reached twenty-one.

Here, he added, it was proposed the first person of the realm should be able to exercise all the functions of his office, and without restriction in so far as he was allowed personal volition in the exercise of office, at the age of eighteen. The speaker said there was no necessity for reposing delicate and important functions remaining to the Sovereign in a person of eighteen.

Mr. Ede said he was opposed to the whole principle of the bill, but thought it would not justify a fight against it in the committee stage.

GALLACHER'S OPINION
William Gallacher, Communist, declared the bill was directed at the present monarch, and before the coronation the House was already discussing how they might substitute for him.

"I protest against the attempt that has been made to deceive this House and the country into the belief that this is a permanent bill. It is clear this is not a permanent bill, but a bill directed towards the present occupant to the throne," he said.

Earl Winterton, Conservative, said Gallacher's assertion was without the slightest vestige of foundation.

"He went on to insinuate there was something in the personal position of the present King which made it necessary to bring in this bill," Lord Winterton declared. "That was a monstrous statement and quite untrue."

Sir John Simon said there was no truth whatever in the suspicion that there is something highly suspicious about this bill and that it is not what it pretends to be."

STUDIED AT OTTAWA

Ottawa, Feb. 5. (Canadian Press).—The Canadian Government has reached no decision as to whether action will be necessary by the Parliament here in connection with the Regency Bill passed yesterday by the British House of Commons. The cabinet will study with the legal officers what steps should be taken and no statement will be made by the ministry in the meantime.

Hanging Protested At Manchester

Manchester, Eng., Feb. 5.—Max Haslam, so-called dwarf of Nelson, Lancashire, was hanged yesterday for the murder last June of Ruth Clarkson, seventy-four.

Mrs. Violet Van der Elst, who protests all hangings, drove up to the prison shortly before the execution. Her automobile was stopped, but she was permitted to approach on foot.

From the loudspeaker of her car, before she left, Mrs. Van der Elst sang "Abide With Me," and announced: "Another state murder has been committed; another insane man has been sent into eternity."

There was no other demonstration. Miss Clarkson was killed by blows inflicted with a tire lever and Haslam, four feet eight inches high, was arrested shortly afterwards.

Coronation Bill Is Voted at Capetown

Capetown, Feb. 5.—"We have great respect for grandma, but we now stand on a par with her," Premier Hertzog said yesterday as the House of Assembly gave second reading to the South Africa coronation bill by a vote of sixty-eight to sixteen.

The Premier, replying to the Dominion Party's contention that the bill proved the government's determination to maintain the divisibility of the crown, said:

"We no longer belong to Great Britain. We are no longer tied to grandma's apron strings. We have great respect for grandma, but we now stand on a par with her."

The Premier announced it had been decided the King would take a joint oath to all Dominions at the time of the coronation.

MAJORITY CUT IN BY-ELECTION

Conservatives Hold St. Pancras in British Commons by 268

London, Feb. 5.—The government retained the House of Commons seat of St. Pancras North in the by-election held yesterday.

Robert Grant-Peris, Conservative, polled 11,744 votes to 11,476 for his Labor opponent, H. M. Tibbles, in a straight party vote.

The majority of 268 was less than that announced on the first count. It showed Grant-Peris leading by 364 and Tibbles demanding a recount, which cut 96 votes from the Conservative majority.

While Labor's fight to wrest the seat from the government fell short, Tibbles sharply cut the Conservative margin of the 1935 general election, when he was defeated by Sir Ian Fraser 16,888 to 13,287.

LIGHT VOTE

Forecasts the vote would be light as the electorate appeared disinterested in the struggle were fully brought out. Grant-Peris's vote was some 5,000 less than Sir Ian polled in 1935, while Tibbles polled almost 2,000 less than he did in that year.

Sir Ian, who lost his sight during the Great War and has since been blind, resigned the seat recently when appointed to the British Broadcasting Commission.

The new member is a young man of little previous political experience, while Tibbles has a long record of service to trade unions. He keenly contested the division, which surrounds the St. Pancras station and is populated largely by railway union workers.

Railway Work Was Given 16,311 Men

Ottawa, Feb. 5.—Arrangement with the government under which men from relief camps were taken on railway maintenance staffs, resulted in 16,311 being given work last summer.

Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Transport, told Angus MacInnis, C.C.F., Vancouver East, in the House of Commons yesterday.

The government reimbursed the railways $2,610,000 for wages.

The Canadian Pacific Railway employed 8,344 men under the scheme at total wages of $1,310,000 and the Canadian National Railways 7,987 at $1,300,000. Accounts for medical aid to the men were $9,085 for C.P.R. and $9,727 for C.N.R.

U.S. Correspondents Get Italian Medal

Rome, Feb. 5.—Five United States citizens, including Edward J. Neil of the Associated Press, were listed in The Official Gazette yesterday evening among Italian and foreign correspondents receiving the War Cross for their reporting during the Ethiopian campaign.

The other Americans were Floyd Gibbons, Webb Miller, Reynolds Packard and Andrew Berding.

Jacques Barre, Havas correspondent, was among five French correspondents honored.

New Protection For Waitresses

Vancouver, Feb. 5.—Police action to force operators of Chinese restaurants in Vancouver to dismiss all white waitresses will be withdrawn, temporarily at least, according to an announcement by Mayor G. C. Miller.

The mayor said the decision was reached after a communication had been received by the city from Chun-how H. Pao, Chinese consul-general here, stating he would keep close watch on all Chinese cafes, and particularly irregularities regarding waitresses in such establishments.

If further reports of irregularities should be received, however, the mayor said, the license of the cafe concerned would be suspended.

STATUES WAIT THIRTEEN YEARS

Truth and Justice Rest in Ottawa Until Completion of King Edward VII Group

By MARGARET BRUCE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Feb. 5.—Truth and Justice rest here in an old building next door to a once roaring hotel—waiting for Edward the Peacemaker. They have waited thirteen years and may wait in vain.

Truth and Justice, ten feet tall, were brought here in 1924 from the Toronto studio of Walter S. Allward, creator of the Canadian Memorial at Vimy Ridge, to form part of a great monument to Edward VII the "Peacemaker."

A quarter century ago Mr. Allward won a competition that gained him a commission to create a bronze and granite memorial, commemorating the late King Edward VII. His design was selected from forty-nine entries because a jury decided it conveyed more than the others a sense of peace, security and power.

PRICES WENT UP

Before Mr. Allward could start work, the Great War broke out. Mr. Allward waited till 1922, then went to Europe to begin work. A new difficulty arose. Prices of bronze and granite had skyrocketed and cost of the materials for the monument reached a figure far higher than the $35,000 earmarked for the work.

In 1924, however, Mr. Allward completed the bronze figures of Truth and Justice and shipped them to Ottawa. They were placed in storage next door to the old Vendome Hotel that once echoed to the shouts of Ottawa Valley farmers. The rest of the memorial has not been finished and the cost of the two figures stands at $6,000.

SITE OCCUPIED

The monument, fifty-four feet long, thirty feet deep and nineteen feet high, was to have stood on Parliament Hill, but its proposed site is now occupied by a statue of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, unveiled in 1927 by the Duke of Windsor when he was Prince of Wales.

Sketches of the memorial show a great wall of granite with a gentle approach of steps. Just below the top of the wall reclines a bronze figure of Peace, and some distance away lies a half-buried cannon, overgrown with olive branches. Below and to the right stands the figure of the King, thoughtful, strong, dignified. On the wall is this inscription: "Through peace and justice, he strove that war might cease and peace descend over all the earth."

But Truth and Justice remain hidden, awaiting the day when conditions will permit completion of the work and choice of a site.

Belgian Condemned In Northern Spain

Associated Press

Berlin, Feb. 5.—Official sources said today that Wolfman Ejuhatal, condemned to death by Basque officials who captured him in Spain, was a "Belgian citizen of German descent." They said he was in no way related to Franz von Papen, German Minister to Austria, or Frau von Papen, as Basque authorities had reported.

Leaving Jamaica, Former British Premier Says Empire's Work Only Starting

Kingston, Jamaica, Feb. 5.—Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George, wartime Prime Minister of Great Britain, and his wife and daughter were at sea today, returning to England after a two-months' vacation here. They sailed yesterday evening.

One thousand Jamaicans, representing every walk of life in the colony, heard the fiery British statesman declare at a farewell banquet yesterday evening the "mission" of the British Empire "is only at its beginning."

"The Great War threw a fierce light on the meaning and mission of the Empire in the world," he said. "That mission is not at an end—it is only at its beginning."

"You must have followed what is happening in Europe today. Nations are arming again. Within ten years the armaments of the world have tripled and are on the way to be quadrupled—all within ten years.

EUROPE FRIGHTENED

"It is going on at an accelerating pace. Europe is thoroughly scared. They are frightened of war and the prayers for peace which you hear everywhere are drowned by the ring of anvils—millions of anvils—hammering out the most terrible machinery of war that has ever been invented."

"This is the time for the Empire to stand together. It is the only entity that can save the world. Humanity is looking to it more than it ever did before. Let us stand united as we did in the last war."

MAN RESCUED IN VIRGINIA MINE

Associated Press

Flemington, W. Va., Feb. 5.—L. S. McGee, state mine inspector, announced early today Robert Johnson, thirty-four-year-old miner, had been found alive in an abandoned mine where he had been lost for a week.

The miner was reported "very weak" and rescue workers took a doctor to him before making any effort to bring him to the surface.

McGee said heaps of debris, piles of jagged pieces of slate and coal were hampering removal of Johnson from the mine on stretchers.

Word of the rescue was not given to McGee's wife for some time after he was found.

run driver whose car is believed to have struck him.

At the hospital the man was tentatively identified as Wong Lee. Authorities believed he may have come from Ioco, B.C., twelve miles east of here.

Police said they found part of an automobile headlight at the scene where the injured man was picked up early this morning.

King George's Two Stories

THIS HEADING IS NOT MEANT to suggest that the monarch who succeeded King Edward VIII has only a limited supply of stories. We suspect that His Majesty, the father of two of the most popular children in the British Empire, could tell the world many more, always providing his gracious consort would act as censor.

However, we are told in a recent issue of Public Opinion, London, that at the time of the recent crisis King George the Sixth, the President of the Industrial Welfare Society, was unable to preside at its annual meeting, but he sent the speech—including the two stories quoted below—which he had prepared, and this was read and is reported in Industrial Welfare. His Majesty wrote:

"In the early days the aims of our society were hard to define. We knew that we were working for an ideal—the creation of good fellowship in industry and the promotion of mutual understanding and regard as between employers and employees, but how to achieve that end was our first problem. Is it too much to say that we have made substantial progress with this research?" Comes story No. 1:

"On one of my visits to factories I noticed a small girl sitting all alone watching millions of tobacco leaves passing by on a belt. Her only job was to pick out foreign bodies, such as bits of wire, nails, and so on. I said to her: 'Don't you get a thrill when you find something?' The little girl looked up with her eyes glowing with the memory of a great event, and said: 'Once I found a shilling.'"

"Whatever the work, boring, varied, or full of risk, unless the employer knows what his workpeople are thinking or is familiar with their abilities, their upbringing and surroundings, he cannot hope to build up a harmonious working force. All we urge is that such matters should be studied and that, where there is need for action to make life richer, that action should be taken. If only we knew a little more of the things that belong to the sorrows and delights of those with whom we work how much less irksome life could be. Here, indeed, it is true that knowledge is power and ignorance a folly."

Then comes story No. 2:

"An old man about to retire on pension was asked what he was going to do in his retirement. The old man said: 'I am going to build a shed.' He was then asked: 'What are you going to do when it is built?' The old man replied: 'I am going to sit in it.' What visions of the old man's workaday life and thoughts untroubled were summed up in that reply!"

Your presence here, the King concluded, "is a sign of your approval of the share I have taken in fostering the work of the society, and you embolden me to go forward, knowing that our efforts will give to the workpeople of this land some greater measure of safety and happiness as they go forth to their work and to their labor until the evening."

King George VI obviously has a keen sense of humor which he will be able, as he becomes more accustomed to the arduous task which he so willingly accepted at a very trying time, to employ to good purpose, as he enlarges a still very intimate knowledge of the trials and tribulations of the people of his native land, as well as the social and economic test with which the world at large is faced at the present time.

Migratory Birds

EVERY ONE WHO OBSERVES what is happening in the world of nature knows that the birds are travelers, that they come back to brighten the whole country-side as harbingers of spring, and that they leave just as surely on the approach of winter.

Canada has perhaps 500 different kinds of birds, and each different kind has a different travel schedule; in fact, some kinds scarcely travel at all and may be found even in the most severe winter weather in their accustomed haunts.

Canada values its bird travelers for the aesthetic pleasure they give by their presence, by their beauty of color, and by their charm of song. They are an important control of insect pests in forest and garden, and some kinds, which are grouped as game birds, are, of course, a major attraction for hunters in the fall.

Not only are the game bird kinds used for sport, but they are also valuable to the residents in remote parts of Canada as providing an important part of their food supply.

To protect its bird travelers which spend part of the year in Canada and part of the year in the United States, Canada almost twenty years ago entered into a treaty with the United States which, by co-operation between the two countries, extends protection to migratory birds by means of close seasons, bag limits and the prohibition of unfair hunting methods. The birds do not belong to either country; they belong to both.

Canada's Migratory Birds Treaty has been of major assistance in conserving this resource, and has been hailed the world round as the first international treaty for bird protection.

Fantastic Trial

THE GREAT CONSPIRACY TRIAL in Moscow has had a fantastic air, right from the start. But its supreme moment of fantasy came when a witness testified that a princely Mdivani was involved in the plot to get the better of Stalin.

The name Mdivani is familiar—almost to the point of boredom—especially to the American public; but not, emphatically not, in connection with the plots of dissatisfied Bolsheviks. Mdivanis, bearing their royal titles from the obscure land of Georgia, have shown unrivaled talent in the matter of marrying wealthy American women. None had dreamed that the house was so versatile as to encompass militant Communism also.

But so it is testified. A defendant at Moscow alleged that one Budu Mdivani was in on a scheme to kill Communists and set up an independent state in Georgia. And this charge, somehow, puts the final touch of unreality on a trial that looked all too unreal from the very start.

"Humbugs"

SOME BISHOPS ARE VERY HUMBUGS—at least we would suggest that most of them are. Comparisons are odious, of course, but we think that the Bishop of Chelmsford, England, Dr. Wilson, preaching at Bowers Gifford, Essex, recently "sized up" humbugs exquisitely in a very few words when he said:

"At a dinner a man told me that he believed in the Church, but never went because his doctor had told him that he must not go into a crowded assembly."

There he was at a dinner at which 1,200 people were present. It was the biggest dinner I had ever attended. Aren't some people "humbugs?"

It would be foolish, of course, to try to embellish a perfectly good story. This one fits excellently The Ancient Order of Humbugs of Every Variety.

Flood Looters

THERE NEVER WAS A GREAT disaster that did not bring out both the nobility and depravity of which human beings are capable.

In a great shipwreck, for instance, there are always tales of men and officers who sacrificed their own lives that others might be saved. And tales, too, of men who even disguised themselves as women to make certain of a place in the lifeboats.

This strange anomaly in human nature is again illustrated in the terrible Ohio-Mississippi Valley flood. While other men are straining every muscle, risking grave danger, to rescue or relieve miserable flood refugees, a few prowl through abandoned homes, seeking loot.

Compared with such human condors, ghouls would seem admirable, warm-hearted people.

Is Chivalry Passing?

OLD-FASHIONED MASCULINE chivalry is going the way of Nineveh and Tyre, if we are to believe all we hear and read. The women complain that it is vanishing rapidly, and hardly anyone argues the point.

But a couple of male students at Ohio State University used the columns of the student daily newspaper the other day to remark that it is mostly women's fault.

Chivalry is vanishing, explained one, because old-fashioned femininity is vanishing. A home-body girl can expect chivalrous attentions; a budding career-woman cannot. And the other man remarked that girls who go about with nails polished blood-red, heavy make-up, and such unfeminine contraptions as jodhpurs are not much inspiration for the awakening of the more gentle sentiments.

We pass these explanations along for what they may be worth. Our own observation is that there is not much the matter with the young people of either sex these days. If they are losing the old-time graces, they are acquiring a new frankness and camaraderie that seem to us to be much more worth while.

Loose Ends

The grim family secret of Mrs. Rag-dok is discovered after several thousand years—which should be a warning to all wives nowadays—a perfect story comes from Texas—and an incredible tale from the barn.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

HEN-PECKED HUSBAND

IN EGYPT they have just dug up a handsome tomb and taken from it the mummies of a Mrs. Rag-dok (as I recall the name) and her husband, Amines. They were buried in 1840 B.C., and they are still in fairly good shape, though Mrs. Rag-dok is beginning, like most women, to show her age a little. Her hair, however, is as good as new and has braided into it a lot of false hair which looks peculiarly grim on her shrunken skull, as such things still do nowadays.

The story of Mrs. Rag-dok and her husband Amines, according to the Egyptologists who opened the tomb, is interesting, even if it is nobody's business. They say that Mrs. Rag-dok was a wealthy woman in her own right and constructed herself a magnificent tomb and a casket of rare splendor. But poor old Amines, her husband, being hen-pecked and dependent on his wife's fortune, got a very simple burial and they didn't make much of a job of mummifying him. It was a distinctly fourth-rate job of mummifying, but all you could expect for the money.

One can imagine the rich Mrs. Rag-dok bargaining with the mummifiers, arguing about the cost of a third-rate job guaranteed to last 3,000 years, or a fourth-rate job which would only be good for a thousand, and finally, of course, deciding on the fourth-rate job. After all, it was good enough for a henpecked husband, who couldn't keep himself, and after ten thousand years or so, it would be all the same, anyway. Besides, with what Mrs. Rag-dok could save between the cost of a third and fourth-rate job she could probably buy another pyramid or some love charms to attract a new husband.

These, however, were family affairs in the Rag-dok family. We have no right to know anything about them. When Mrs. Rag-dok paid out her good coin to get a first-rate job of mummifying for herself, and the best tomb that money could buy near Thebes, she had a right to expect some privacy. Poor Mrs. Rag-dok, she couldn't foresee the ruthless curiosity of this present age. She couldn't foresee that a lot of fellows would sail across the ocean, in boats propelled by queer engines, and spend money accumulated in the manufacture of automobiles, canned peas and lipsticks, just to dig down and open up her tomb and find out the dirty trick she had played on the late Mr. Rag-dok.

She wouldn't have believed it if you had told her that there would one day crawl about the sand of Egypt a people so sacrilegious, so ignorant of the gods of heaven, as to dig up the sacred remains of the dead (especially when a first-rate job had been done on them). But this shows you that, in ill-treating a husband a woman can't be too careful because someone, some day, will find her out.

DESCENDANTS

I DARE SAY THERE ARE MANY descendants of Mrs. Rag-dok here in Victoria. You may be one of her offspring yourself, for all you know. In fact, I have often thought that many of the people walking the streets of this city today were partly mummy. There are sure signs of mummification in the attitude of the public to public affairs and some of the letters to the editor of this paper, one feels sure, were written by people with mummy blood in their veins.

Now, these great grandchildren of Mrs. Rag-dok, only 3,277 years removed from her, a matter of sixty lifetimes or so, how would they like it if they thought that sixty lifetimes from now they would be dug up by some wandering tribe from the wilds of Africa? How would they like to have their lives dredged up and all their private affairs, their treatment of their husbands and what they did to their wives?

If they don't want this to happen to them, the descendants of Mrs. Rag-dok, the living mummies of this time, should see that their memory is protected. There ought to be a law of libel covering mummies for the protection of us all.

BRIEF FLASH

IT IS ONLY 3,277 YEARS since Mrs. Rag-dok selected a four-rate job for her husband and a first-rate job for herself. Some 1,500 years before that they were building the Pyramids and thus between the Pyramids, the first civilization of importance and us, there are only 5,000 years. Mrs. Rag-dok would have lasted far longer than that if the inevitable Americans had left her alone. Thus you see that one mummy, one wealthy Theban lady, could last, with a first-rate job, during the entire period of man's civilization. It has only been going a few minutes, you might say, compared with his life in the caves before that. You can't expect much from a growth so young. You can't expect a civilization to begin to learn its business in the span of one mummy. By the time Mrs. Rag-dok was 10,000 years old, if they had left her alone, we might begin to get civilized. The sweet proof that we haven't begun yet is that we go about digging up the respectable graves of ancient peoples perhaps more civilized than we are, and broadcasting their private affairs, with a smirk, to the world.

But I guess old Amines wouldn't care. He never expected much, poor henpecked fellow. All he asked was enough of his wife's money for tobacco and the odd beer, and at the end a fourth-rate job.

BLIND MAN

THE MOST intriguing piece of news that has come out of America for some time seems to have been overlooked here. I offer it here without comment, because it needs none:

In the Texas State Senate, Senator O. R. Van Zandt introduced a bill which would prevent magazines and newspapers publishing any pictures which showed ladies' legs.

Mr. Van Zandt is blind.

There is a rounded perfection to this story which you won't find in the best writers.

FROM THE BARN

UP AT BILL'S PLACE said the little boy from next door, "they are going to have a lot of lambs in March. I don't know how they know but I spose somebody told them. Anyway, they're going to get them but the sheep don't know yet. I bet they'll be surprised when they come, eh?"

"Well, animals are clever, you know. Spot—that's the Holstein cow up at the barn—she always knows when it's time to get milked. Every night she knows. She can tell by looking at Dennis. Dennis has milked her so long and he's so good at it that all Spot has to do is to look at Dennis and then she knows when it's time for her to get milked."

"Dennis is smart. He's got the spiders in the barn all trained to come down on the cows and eat up the flies. He keeps the spiders in the corners, up on the ceiling, and when flies get on the cows they come down and eat them. I never saw them do it, but Dennis says he trained them. He had to be patient, though, until the spiders found out what he wanted. Now there aren't any flies in the barn at all."

SILENCE, PLEASE!

From The New York Times
What has become of the strong, silent Englishman who used to sit in a corner of his railway carriage and never relax a facial muscle all the way from Liverpool to London? The question is a pertinent one because the most terrifying adventure which awaits American tourists on English railways is traditionally the massive and impenetrable silence of the gentleman in the corner.

Yet within the last few weeks somebody has been writing to The Times of London to complain that English railway passengers annoy each other because, Heaven help us, they talk too much! The Times correspondent wants the railways to set aside compartments for "Non-talkers," indicating them by labels on the windows just as smoking compartments are indicated. British trains are cut up into little compartments holding about a dozen passengers each and The Times correspondent thinks the compartment system is too gregarious unless special provision is made for non-gregarious passengers.

Foreigners are apt to find the whole controversy an incredible one. The description "non-talkers" would seem to the average foreigners to be as redundant on a compartment full of Englishmen as on the war works at Madame Tussaud's.

WOMEN AT PUBLIC BARS

From The San Francisco Argonaut
There are definite trends indicating recognition of the influence women are making in the public bars today. No longer is the vision of a woman, balancing a well-shod foot on the brass rail, a cause for alarm. She imbibes her fancy concoction in an atmosphere of streamlined surroundings and nibbles dainty appetizers that embarrass old-timers who often consumed the equivalent of an entire meal over the free-lunch counter. Many of the old school still feel that this unrestricted fun of the sexes in public drinking establishments is a thorn of contention in the flesh of prohibitionists.

The rear-door entrance is rarely seen. Today the entire family passes indifferently through the front entrance, under the glare of bright lights and often to the accompaniment of blaring music, much the same as they would to a cinema. This feminine urge to quaff at the bar with men is not unusual. Women have a natural curiosity to see how the numerous varieties of drinks are prepared. If she is smartly gowned, here is an advantageous spot in which to be seen. She feels she has an important part in this new trend toward modernism and she intends to make the most of it.

SLANG SNAPPER-UPPER

From The New York Sun
What is the difference between a procrastinator and a "putter-offer"? The professors who have studied compounds in slang insist that the chief difference is just a bit of formality. In American speech appears a list of nearly forty compounds collected by Professor Harold Wentworth of West Virginia University. It includes such jolting expressions as "jobby-drifter-througher," "home-breaker-upper" and "holder-outer." Somewhat solemnly, Professor Wentworth assures his readers that current slang of this type must be classed as "low-colloquial," or at best grotesque. This sort of academic flying alive of slang-throwers-arounders seems, under the circumstances, a model of restraint. The professor refers to "pulse-upper" as anomalous, if not a "linotype whimsey or inadvertence." Any student of slang falls over backward in his effort to be fair when he selects just one expression from many and calls it an inadvertence.

WOLVES IN HURON COUNTY

From The Goodrich Star
For the second time in the last thirty-six years, the county of Huron has paid a bounty for the killing of a wolf. On Tuesday, Kenneth Stewart, R.R. 5, Stanley Township, produced a pelt and claimed the $15 from H. A. Erskine, the county treasurer, the province will return 60 per cent of this amount to the county. The wolf was an aged female. Other wolves, as well as wild cats, are said to have been seen in the Pinery south of Bayfield.

Modern Etiquette

By ROBERTA LEE

Q. Is it proper for a man to take a woman's arm when crossing a dangerous street?
A. No. The man should offer his arm, and the woman should rest the palm of her hand lightly within the curve of his elbow.

Q. Is it all right to have one's initials on a visiting card?
A. The faultlessly correct card bears the full name.

Q. Is it proper to say, "Mary is visiting her relations?"
A. No; say, "her relatives."

MUSOLINI BUILDS A HOLLYWOOD

From The Nation

An Italian Hollywood will be the next goldfish bowl to come out of the hat of Europe's chief prestidigitator. Not content with making an empire grow where a kingdom stood before, Mussolini intends to make a cinema city sprout on the arid plains of Quadraro, on the road to Frascati, just south of Rome. Already, we learn from the Swedish journal, Stockholm's Tidningen, thousands of workmen are laying the foundations of ten huge studios, two lakes for marine scenes, and streets, houses, public squares, even villages, which will be built in imitation of everything from New York to Novosibirsk.

Meanwhile, Ronconi, a well-known Italian movie star, has gone to Hollywood to recruit talent among directors, actors and writers, and Walter Wanger, an American director who has demonstrated his love for Fascism, is in Italy drawing up studio plans under the expert supervision of Duco himself. By the end of 1937 Italy will have the most complete, Tremendous, Colossal, Super-Film Centre in Europe.

A KITCHENER STORY

From The London Correspondent of

The Ottawa Journal
Most interesting in Mr. Colvin's

last volume of "Lord Carson's Life" are the sidelights on famous people, especially of the Great War epoch. We get one arresting vignette of Kitchener thinking aloud. "They expect too much of me, these fellows," growled the redoubtable soldier. "I don't know Europe; I don't know England, and I don't know the British army." The strange thing about which is that it was true. K. belonged to the Orient.

Letters To The Editor

THANKS AND CONGRATULATIONS

To the Editor:—Will you kindly allow me, through your paper to thank the electors of Esquimalt who voted for me at the recent municipal elections.

May I also express my hearty congratulations to the successful candidates, and I am sure everyone will be quite satisfied that the interests of the children, as well as the taxpayers, will be taken care of.

(MRS.) E. MITCHELL,
655 Admirals Road.

SCOTS A CREDIT TO CANADA

To the Editor:—It was quite refreshing to read a letter in The Times a few days ago signed "J.W." Some are fond of criticizing other nations but usually the Scottish people I have met are broad-minded and rather speak of the good in other people of different nationalities than their own. I had a Scottish grandfather. On the other side of the house my ancestors have been Canadians for several generations back. My grandfather came to Canada after graduating from Edinburgh University. He took up a farm in Ontario and worked hard and stayed on it till he died. Energetic Scots like him are a credit to our country. Also, I have American relatives and American friends I esteem greatly.

NO ALIBIS OR COMPLAINTS

To the Editor:—May I, through your columns, express my thanks to those who supported me in the late Esquimalt elections, especially those who worked so hard in my behalf. I appreciate their expression of confidence in me.

I note the sympathetic attitude of the winner, this being a surprise in view of his conduct throughout the past two years. Personally I feel that it is the taxpayers, as a class, who are in need of sympathy, rather than myself.

As your next editorial says, "The electors have demonstrated decisively that they are satisfied with the way Reeve Lockley and his supporters handle the business." Everybody knows I am not.

I have never said anything under council immunity which I would be ashamed or afraid to repeat in the open. I have no alibis to offer nor any complaints to make.

I thank you for the courtesy of your columns, and I wish the people of my home municipality well.

NON-NORDICS LESS DESIRABLE

To the Editor:—The United States crime waves originate in the non-Nordic element of its population. Here is a typical gangster's list: Caranzia, Pelinsky, Niederwisk, Smith, Uptmore, Joe Schneider, Louis Schneider, Leopold Janta, Miller, Russo, Venozza, Roberts, Alessandro, Gulbrenden, Schrader, Sabat, Coccolavio, Valente, Zito, Rubinger, Pones, Wajnarowski, Kliesen, Eisman, Hochderffer, Dufek.

Note how few of the above named indicate Nordic origin. As said last comes to hand, a clipping also arrives of federal claims against a certain so-called "king of gangsters" which alleges the government has a claim of over $7,000,000 against this east-

European-born racketeer because of disputed income taxes.

If the United States had maintained an Immigration Quota Act since our Civil War, when our country was still almost purely British-Nordic, we would not have our present crime waves. One hopes your Dominion, still overwhelmingly British-Nordic in blood, will be alert against a similar menace.

IMMIGRATION STUDY COMMISSION

C. M. Goethe, president Immigration Study Commission, Capital National Bank Building, Sacramento, Cal.

PART-TIME WORKER HIT

To the Editor:—May I, through your paper, explain a relief case which should be looked into by men holding a higher position than a relief officer.

I am a single man and have lived in this city for the past twenty-five years. Unfortunately I have had to make application for relief work but have been refused. Why? Because they tell me I am a homeless man and have to go to camp. Why should I be denied help when I need it and lose my part-time job by being forced out to a relief camp, whereas if I stay in the city this job may lead to be a steady one in time and I would not be required to ask assistance?

There are many other cases such as this, but these men are not denied help. Why do some get privileges and not others? I think that the single men's relief is unfair and cases like this should be given attention immediately.

DISAPPROVES SAANICH COLLECTION PROPOSAL

To the Editor:—Residents and property owners in the Municipality of Saanich have expressed themselves as definitely opposed to the arrangement reported between their municipal council and a Victoria mercantile establishment, whereby the latter will act as collection agent for Saanich water bills. While concurring in the efforts of the council to reduce expenditures, one is of the opinion that surely some other method could have been devised. It suggests unfair discrimination against other stores in Victoria and district.

Surely it would be possible to arrive at an agreement with Victoria City whereby Saanich water bills would be made payable at Victoria City Hall; or, alternatively, with some business house in Victoria not connected with ordinary merchandising.

It would be interesting to know whether power to act in the capacity of a collection agency, outside of that necessary to the conduct of its own business, is conferred on such a store in terms of its charter. If not, is the agreement entered into with Saanich Municipality legal?

"SAANICH RATEPAYER."

TIRED OF BEING "GOAT" TO DOCTORS?

To the Editor:—The medical profession has for the time being, adopted an unpleasant and antagonistic attitude toward the public of British Columbia, because the public are unwilling to pay more than it can afford for medical treatment—an essential service rendered by men who are for-

SIDE GLANCES By George Clark

"They can't be as important as we thought. They called on us the very first time we invited them."

lunate in having been provided with a highly technical training which enables them to engage in one of the most lucrative pursuits available. The human phase, excepting where it affects their own interests, is remarkable for its entire absence, and does not exist, if we judge the strength of their determination to refuse to render medical aid to those under the government scheme of insurance, who form by far the largest proportion of the British Columbia public, the same section which provides the preponderant amount of taxation yield; and, incidentally, the larger part of the fund which the government uses to support the unfortunate indigent.

The whole system of government health insurance was largely inspired because of the ridiculously extravagant value which the doctor places on the value of his work—which has resulted in distress among those unable honestly to obtain but a very restricted, insufficient and incomplete medical service, and which would ultimately result in a very healthy population becoming subnormal in physical condition unless such a scheme which the government is about to operate was introduced.

It has always been an outstanding characteristic of the medical man to exhibit a "large chip on the shoulder" and to exaggerate his difficulties in collecting bills.

The public might have sincerely formed a better impression of this body of men had they unanimously agreed to the terms outlined. Their emphatic denunciation of the terms offered was not an exhibition of etiquette for which the medical profession the world over is looked upon to exhibit.

It is difficult to conceive that the commission would make any financial proposal to the doctors which had not been well considered. In view of the fact that henceforth the doctor will have little cause to complain of unpaid bills—it might be supposed he would welcome such an assurance of guaranteed income.

The public are tired of assuming the role of "goat." It is time the doctor realized he is merely a cog in the machine with other cogs representing the lesser professions and occupations.

Japan Protest Sent to Soviet

Objections Voiced by New Premier to Russian Actions at Vladivostok

Tokio, Feb. 5.—Premier Senjuro Hayashi, in his first important act as Foreign Minister, instructed the Japanese ambassador at Moscow to protest against alleged Russian actions against Japanese in Vladivostok, it was learned today.

Ambassador Mamoru Shigemitsu was instructed to protest:

1. An alleged Russian intention to freeze out Japanese resident from Vladivostok.

2. Alleged illegal examination of Japanese vessel calling there.

The Premier-Foreign Minister alleged the Russian authorities in Vladivostok on January 28 notified Japanese steamship companies their pier office would be confiscated unless moved.

A semi-official statement January 28 in Tokio charged Japanese residents of Vladivostok had been reduced to a mere handful and were suffering persecution.

The Tokio newspaper Nichi Nichi two days later charged Russian authorities were trying to compel withdrawal of the Japanese consul-general from Vladivostok by a campaign of "persecution" so he could not watch development of that port as a formidable naval base.

PROTEST REJECTED

Earlier in January, Russia rejected a Japanese protest over the search of two Japanese steamships at Vladivostok.

Benedict Kozlovsky, chief of the Russian Far Eastern Department of the Foreign Commissariat in Moscow, declared search of the vessels, the Siberia Maru and the Kongatsu Maru, had "resulted in the discovery of materials revealing a captain and some members of the crews were engaged in illegal actions."

GLASS HOUSES FOR CANADA

Architectural Exhibition in Toronto Shows Modern Influence in Building

By TED FARAH

Canadian Press Staff Writer
Toronto, Feb. 5.—Come the architectural revolution in Canada, people who live in glass houses will not have to undress in the dark. Also, they will be able to throw stones just as anyone else does.

An impression of architectural trends gleaned from photographic exhibits of outstanding works throughout the Dominion during the last two years indicates glass blocks will be used more and more in Canadian homes and business structures.

The glass blocks admit a lovely light, but can't be seen through. They provide an insulation that keeps a home warmer in winter, cooler in summer. They are practically unbreakable.

The sixth biennial exhibit of architecture and allied arts, sponsored by the Toronto chapter of the Ontario Association of Architects, will be opened here this evening. Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor-General, will deliver the opening address.

Photographs of architectural work in Canada since the last exhibition two years ago will present a panorama of the Dominion's awakening to modern influences, according to John M. Lyle, chairman of the hanging committee.

FLAT-ROOFED HOUSES

The revolution has taken seed in Canada, Mr. Lyle said. Younger people particularly are interested in flat-roofed homes which allow for sun-bathing, complete simplicity of form, elimination of meaningless ornament, use of clearer, brighter colors in decoration of rooms, larger window areas, terraces, air conditioning and indirect lighting.

Also, many new fabrics and building materials have been introduced which suggest new designs and forms. The answer to changing tastes is seen in a general simplification and directness of modern life.

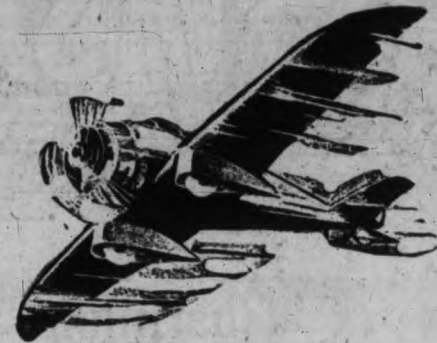

"A young girl nowadays wears clothes with simple lines," said Mr. Lyle. "She doesn't wear a bustle and a lot of frills and furbelows. So she wouldn't look right in heavily ornamented, stuffy surroundings. Young people are beginning to realize that. People don't do a lot of elaborate, formal entertaining any more. So they don't need those types of homes."

The Oak Bay and City Temple Y.P.S. spent an enjoyable evening at the Oak Bay United Church. Miss Jean Smith opened the meeting with a few words of welcome, followed by a hymn. A short prayer was given by Romy Wilson. Mary Sinclair read the scripture passage. Owing to illness the devotional convener was not present and Jean Smith gave a short talk on "Friendship." Nancy Hepburn read an interesting article on the fishing industry, which was followed by a few comical readings by Christine Badger. Refreshments were served by Nancy Hepburn. Afterwards, the groups enjoyed a trip down south.

The evening was brought to a close with several very good impersonations by Norman Buckle.

Alderman John A. Worthington, chairman of the city relief committee, today expressed thanks to public-spirited citizens who have subscribed to the fund to provide fuel for the needy during the continued cold spell in Victoria. In his acknowledgement of gifts to the fund, the alderman repeated his requests for greater assistance to help needy families over the winter. Donations have been received from: "Geroge," A. Kohl, Caroline Macklem, H. L. Williams, Miss A. Turner, "We Three," Henry Webster, Helen A. Hazlewood, J. Virtue, Miss Agnes M. Ellis, Mrs. J. E. Wilson, Mrs. Wilkinson, H. G. Wyatt, Grace P. Willcox, Mrs. Forrest Angus, Ryan, Hibberson, Timber Company, "Helpmate," E. J. H. Miss L. Angus, Reiter Wilkinson, "A Friend," W. M. Allen, E. F. H. Donations of fuel: Mrs. C. Wood, F. J. Baines, Mrs. Hatch, Mrs. A. Wilson, J. H. Harmon and anonymous donors.

The Empire's Airways

Recently shown at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto, where it was acclaimed one of the outstanding attractions and was visited by more than 600,000 people.

An Exhibit As Modern As Today!

This Exhibition Is Under the Auspices of
The Canadian and Imperial Airways
Featuring:

- Beautiful scale models of the latest Air Liners now being built for Imperial Airways.
- Wonderful equipment of the Two-decker Empire Flying Boats and Two-decker Airliners.
- Models of the Mayo Composite Aircraft with which it is hoped to start experimental flights across the Atlantic.
- Models of the latest type Airports, and many interesting photographs.
- How great Air Liners are controlled and guided to safety.

Come to the Exhibit and take an Air Trip yourself! The exhibit is equipped with mechanism enabling visitors to actually imagine themselves flying and operating a plane . . . flying in a storm far out at sea . . . landing in a dense fog . . . flying in a storm at night . . . listening to the roar of the engine and the voice of the captain obtaining his position from control stations on land.

In short, those who visit the exhibit will gain some insight into the organization of Imperial Airways, the service which links England to Egypt, Palestine, India, Burma, Malay, Australia and Africa, and, of course Canadian Airways.

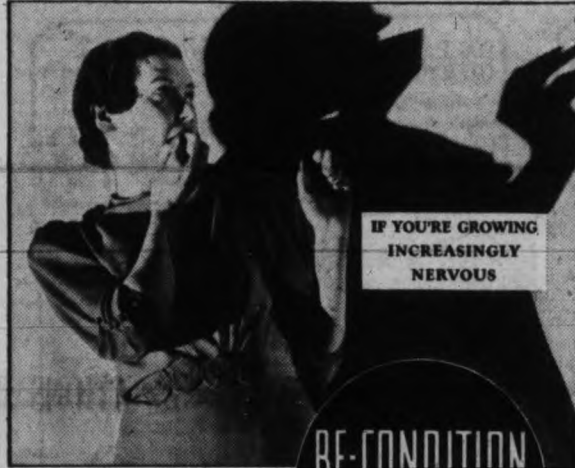

The exhibit will be shown on the Fifth Floor at SPENCER'S daily during store hours commencing on Saturday morning.

Come! Enjoy an Hour in the

RE-CONDITION
YOURSELF

Do you find your nerves getting more and more frayed from the strain of life? Then, whatever your age, recondition yourself. Start taking two 'PHYLOSAN' tablets three times each day before meals.

The effect of 'PHYLOSAN' is first to arrest the symptoms of physical decline and then, quickly, to renew your physical and vital forces. As 'PHYLOSAN' helps in this restoration, your nerves once more become sound and strong. You feel as you used to feel years ago, for 'PHYLOSAN' helps make you feel ten years younger.

It does this by supplying a substance which is recognized by science as the basic source of vital energy. The concentration of this principle is the fruit of research by Dr. E. Buerger, Professor of Medicine of the University of Berne, under whose direction and according to whose formula 'PHYLOSAN' tablets are prepared.

Put this discovery of medical science to work re-making you.

Sees Defeat of Jap Aggression

Dr. Chen Han-seng Says China Developing Nationalism With Democracy

"China is presenting a common defense against aggression and that means nationalism with its entire people assuming collective political responsibility," declared Chen Han-seng, research associate of the Institute of Pacific Relations and outstanding student of Chinese affairs, discussing Japanese penetration in Asia in an interview with The Times yesterday. "And when nationalism develops in China democracy goes with it," he added. "So democracy is going to develop in China."

"But in Japan it is different. As long as Japan continues her present policy she will have to develop her military dictatorship."

"The immediate issue in China is a common defense to preserve Chinese nationalism, whereas the immediate issue in Japan is Fascism, which means an 'expansive, aggressive imperial policy which will bring no benefit to themselves," said Dr. Chen. All the symptoms of Fascist rule in Japan are shown in the attempted military coup of last February and in the present cabinet crisis, he asserted. There was a difference between Fascism in Japan and Fascism in Europe, he contended. In Europe, Fascism from the beginning had the support of the big financial and industrial interests, whereas in Japan the military crowd stepped in first and the financial and industrial interests gave their support afterwards, and for some time half-heartedly, because they did not want to bear too much of the war burden.

"Japan will never seriously attack the Soviet Union until after Nazi Germany attacks the Soviet Union in Europe," he said.

All the border skirmishes on the Manchuria and Inner Mongolia frontiers during the last few years, he said, was just a little advertising reminding the world, and especially the Anglo-Saxon nations, of Japan's role in conducting her alleged anti-Communist crusade.

"Anti-Communism," said Dr. Chen, "is now being used as a smoke screen for advancing Japan's continental policy in Asia."

Communism was no more of a menace in Japan than in Germany, he argued.

Dr. Chen was a delegate to the Institute of Pacific Relations conference last year at Yokohama, and is now on his way back to China.

Few Maturities For Province

B.C. Has Three Small Issues Due This Year Besides Serials

The British Columbia treasury has only $1,260,000 in debt maturities to meet this year in contrast to the large maturities of the last two years, and will have no trouble in handling these obligations, it is indicated in provincial circles.

Of this year's maturities, $515,000 is in serials, the money for which has been set aside in the budget. The remainder is made up of three small issues coming due in July and December. On July 1 the province will retire a forty-year-old sinking loan of $245,000 and a thirty-eight-year issue of $200,000 which was used for a similar purpose. The other $300,000 to be paid off this year is a twenty-year issue put out in 1917 and due on December 1.

"The province does not face any unusually heavy maturities on its funded debt until 1939. In 1939 four issues amounting in all to $1,500,000 become due and in 1939 will be liable for $5,300,000."

Seaman to Open New CRCV Station

To a seaman, representative of Canadian listeners, who will speak from the deck of a pilot boat riding at anchor a few miles from Vancouver, will go the honor of officially pronouncing open the new equipment of station CRCV, Vancouver, according to the CBC Radio News Service.

The station's new studios and transmitter will be used in a two-and-a-half-hour inaugural programme February 16, starting at 6 o'clock.

Among the speakers who are expected to take part in the opening programme are: Hon. E. W. Hamber, Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia; Hon. T. D. Pattullo, Premier of the province; George C. Miller, mayor of Vancouver; L. W. Brockington, chairman of the board of governors of the CBC; Mrs. Nellie McClung, also of the board, and Dr. Augustin Prigon, assistant general manager of the CBC.

Hendaye, France, Feb. 5 (Canadian Press from Havas).—Dispatches received here said Louis Rodriguez de Viguri, once a minister under King Alfonso, had been sentenced yesterday to "twelve years' imprisonment" by the San Sebastian war council for having indirectly committed treason to the insurgent cause by expressing opinions unfavorable to the generals of the Burgos Government.

Musical Play To Aid College

"Rainbow of the Rio Grande" is the title of the clever musical comedy to be produced in aid of St. Louis College on Monday evening at 8.15 in the auditorium of St. Ann's Academy by the Catholic Young Peoples' Club. Under the direction of Mrs. M. Black, the play has been taking shape in a most satisfactory manner, during the past few weeks. Miss Roma Trudel is ably supervising the musical score, and Gus Michaux' orchestra has been secured to assist.

The play calls for colorful costuming, and Miss Mary Thorne Hughes is mistress of the wardrobe, and Mr. Frank McDonald is arranging the special scenery and acting as stage manager.

The leading roles will be taken by Miss Mona Kelpin as Betty Hope, owner of the ranch, and J. Grant as Ted Travers, a geologist, posing as a landscape painter. The other players in their order of appearance are: Roma Trudel, John Kinsinger, Nora O'Connell, Al Dunnet, Tom White, Don Mulcahy, Bob Holley, Art Cow-

Asking for $1,000 Month Alimony

Associated Press
Hollywood, Calif., Feb. 5.—The rift between Arlene Judge, actress, and Wesley Ruggles, film director, finally reached the divorce court.

On the fourth birthday yesterday of their son, Charles Wesley, the petite brunette actress, filed a divorce complaint charging mental cruelty.

The actress said a property settlement was reached last November 4. She asked custody of their son and $1,000 a month for his support.

DOUGLAS STREET B.Y.P.
At the regular meeting of the Douglas Street Baptist Young People, Miss Alice Russell, who was in the chair, led a short devotional period.

A "Current Events" contest in charge of Miss Margaret McKinnon and Henry Robinson was very much enjoyed and proved to be interesting as well as educational. A contest for new members is being held, to which all the members are responding enthusiastically.

Plans were made for the hard-times social to be held in the next Sunday school on February 16. Next Tuesday the meeting will be in charge of Miss Laura Woodward. A cordial invitation is extended to all young people of the community to join in these meetings.

MARY PICKFORD ILL.
Hollywood, Calif., Feb. 5 (Associated Press)—Mary Pickford, in "excellent condition" after a gallstone operation, will be a hospital patient for two weeks, Dr. Verne Hunt said today.

The film celebrity underwent surgery last Tuesday.

Lady Douglas Chapter—Owing to the weather yesterday, the annual meeting of the Sir James and Lady Douglas Chapter, I.O.E., was postponed until next Thursday afternoon, February 11.

V.O.N. Meeting—The regular monthly meeting of the V.O.N. will be held on Tuesday morning, February 9 at 10:30 o'clock in the board room of the Pemberton Building.

They referred to the gallery as a "likely place for hunting mountain goats," a slur Mrs. Schultz resented. She denied there were goats in her theatre, but intimidated the board wanted to make one out of her.

Protesting bitterly against the affront, the board voted in formal meeting to accept three tickets and designated three censors to view the ballet.

The censors, game though groggy, scouted around. They found a ray of cheer in one of the ballet numbers, called "The Afternoon of a Faun."

This number was naughty in the extreme, the censors said they had heard, and intimated it might need quite a bit of pruning.

"If the censors decide to prune that," said Mrs. Schultz, "they'll have the whole country laughing at them."

Mrs. Schultz apparently had the edge in any disturbance about the Fauna afternoons.

It will not be on the programme tomorrow night, so it can't be censored then. If the censors decide after viewing it Monday it might endanger Seattle's morals, they can order it stricken—a rather futile gesture, as it will not be repeated, anyway.

OUTBOARD DANCE
The Vancouver Island Outboard Association will hold a Valentine novelty dance on Saturday, February 13, at the Palais de Danse. The committee has promised that this will be a gala event, with music supplied by Bill Fletcher's well-known "Royal Victorians," and also added attractions of prizes, balloons and serpentine.

Proceeds from this dance and other dances held by the V.I.O.A. will be used to promote speedboat racing in Victoria.

Tickets may be had from club members and at 917 Fort Street.

Children's Aid W.A. Review Busy Year

Mrs. Donald McAdie
Is Named
New President

Mrs. Donald McAdie was elected president of the Women's Auxiliary to the Children's Aid Society at the annual meeting held yesterday afternoon at the Victoria Truth Centre, Fort Street, Mrs. F. Daniels in the chair. Mrs. A. H. Tison was elected secretary, and Mrs. A. James, treasurer.

In her report of the year's activities, Mrs. Daniels, the retiring president, noted that the membership had grown to twenty-five during the year. Much work had been accomplished, some of the members knit stockings and other garments, others collected used clothing and others mend and remake the into wearable garments for the children who come under the care of the society. In retiring from the chair, Mrs. Daniels wished her successor the co-operation which she had enjoyed and thanked the members for their loyal support throughout the year.

Mrs. L. A. Gane, secretary-treasurer, spoke in detail of the year's activities. Six special speakers had addressed the auxiliary on matters directly concerned with children's aid and welfare work. The sewing and knitting circle had been supplied with eleven pounds of wool, fifty yards of Canton flannel and sixteen remnants of flannelette which had been made up into children's garments.

Mrs. Turner had arranged a concert for the benefit of the funds. Miss Ravenhill had donated a hooked rug which was disposed of in aid of the auxiliary funds. Miss Betty Petch had collected a number of Christmas gifts suitable for children's stockings, and a successful telephone bridge party had been held.

Before Christmas, Miss Kirkendale, R.N., had inquired into the needs of the children, and with Mrs. Daniels and Mrs. Gane, purchases were made which comprised the following: Pyjamas, slippers, raincoats, flashlights, shirts, handkerchiefs, shoes and sweaters. Crutches were also sent to the receiving home. Sixty-three children received gifts. Through the kindness of Mrs. Pilgrim, some of the ladies of the auxiliary met the sewing and knitting circle at the headquarters, 1234 Pandora Avenue, for the purpose of wrapping the Christmas gifts, which were delivered to the children by Miss Moss and Miss Kirkendale.

The income for the year amounted to $116.49 and the expenditures, $56.96.

Ballet Russe Worrying Censors

Seattle Board Is Not Sure Of
"Afternoon of a Faun"

Associated Press
Seattle, Feb. 5.—Theatre censor board members, gasping from a solar plexus blow, peered cautiously around today for a line of attack against Mrs. Cecilia Schultz, who thumped them from "baldheaded" row to the highest gallery in her theatre.

If the censors don't win by tomorrow night, they'll have to view the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo from the last row in the gallery—a prospect they have found unappealing.

They referred to the gallery as a "likely place for hunting mountain goats," a slur Mrs. Schultz resented. She denied there were goats in her theatre, but intimidated the board wanted to make one out of her.

Protesting bitterly against the affront, the board voted in formal meeting to accept three tickets and designated three censors to view the ballet.

The censors, game though groggy, scouted around. They found a ray of cheer in one of the ballet numbers, called "The Afternoon of a Faun."

Twelve-year-old Bride and Mate

"I am very happy. I wish everyone would mind their own business," Leona Elizabeth Kosha, twelve years old, after criticism of her marriage to nineteen-year-old Stanley S. Backus, a painter, with whom she is pictured in an affectionate pose. The Watertown, N.Y., bride said she thought her marriage was had enough, but that of nine-year-old Eunice Winstead of Tennessee was "worse yet."

Society

Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Dorman of "Logie Lea," Newport Avenue, will leave this afternoon for Seattle en route for Los Angeles and Mexico. They expect to return to Victoria at the end of the month.

Miss Pearl Taylor, who has just completed her first year in the Royal Jubilee Training School for nurses, is spending a vacation at her home in Kamloops.

Mr. Owen J. Simpson, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Simpson, Pelham Road, Gordon Head, has left for Salmon Arm, where he has accepted a position on the staff of the Bank of Commerce.

Mrs. Harold Sexton, wife of the Bishop of Columbia, has been elected a Fellow of the Royal Empire Society, according to an announcement made in Canada's Weekly, published in London.

In honor of Miss Miriam Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Williams, Cedar Hill Road, whose marriage to Mr. Louis A. Prior, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Prior, George Road, will take place this evening, Miss Cecilia Lewis entertained on Wednesday evening at her home on Seaforth Street with a miscellaneous shower.

The diamond anniversary of their wedding day in 1877 was celebrated yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Thomas, Linden Avenue, who were "at home" to a number of their old friends. Many beautiful flowers, together with telegrams and letters of greeting and congratulations were received from friends here and on the mainland, the house resembling a bower of spring flowers. Owing to illness, their son, Dr. M. W. Thomas, Vancouver, was prevented from attending the gathering. The tea table was decorated with a beautiful bowl of daffodils and was presided over by Mrs. Frank Baylis, a niece of Mrs. J. E. Thomas, and assisting were Mrs. A. Gardner, Mrs. Alan John (Vancouver, Wash.), Mrs. Smith Neil and Mrs. W. H. Vickers.

The Empress Hotel augmented orchestra will be heard in another specially prepared programme of lighter music during the tea hour on Saturday afternoon from 3.45 to 5.15. Included in the selections will be: "The Merry Widow" (Lehar), "The Chocolate Soldier" (Strauss), "The Merry Widow" (Bendix), "Vienna Woods" (Strauss), "Suite from the South" (McCord), "Spanish Dances" (Mozart), and the popular hits of the day. The orchestra will be under the direction of William F. Tickle.

Mrs. J. Crawford entertained yesterday afternoon at her home, 1306 Rudin Street, with a delightful shower in honor of Miss Winnie Green, a February bride-elect, and was assisted by Mrs. Geo. C. Grant and Mrs. H. Gann. The many lovely gifts were presented in an artistically decorated clothes basket. Tea was served from a prettily appointed table centered with an arrangement of spring flowers. The invited guests were: Mrs. J. Green, Mrs. A. Wardman, Mrs. Nason, Mrs. Gann, Mrs. H. Gann, Mrs. S. Grant, Mrs. Geo. C. Grant, Mrs. Buhlin, Mrs. Marshall, Mrs. Hood, Mrs. Bridge, Mrs. Ellis, Miss B. Martin, Mrs. Smiley, Mrs. Pratt, Mrs. Eason, Mrs. Green and Mrs. Wardman assisted the hostess in pouring tea.

Women Mad At Iturbi Claim

Spanish Conductor's
Remarks Are
Warmly Contradicted

Canadian Press
New York, Feb. 5.—Indignant contradiction came from several quarters today to the statement of Jose Iturbi, noted Spanish musician, that "women can never attain greatness in music or in sport."

Miss Antonia Bruckner, conductor of the New York Women's Symphony Orchestra, lauded the proficiency of her own musicians and issued a challenge to Mr. Iturbi suggesting a contest in which members of her orchestra might compete with men.

If the musical accomplishments of women were not obvious to Mr. Iturbi, she said, he might look at their records in sports.

In an interview in Toronto Wednesday, the Spanish conductor- pianist was quoted as saying that "women are physically limited from attaining the standard of men and are limited temperamentally besides."

To this, Leonard Libling, editor of The Musical Courier, said: "In the Book of Job it is said 'man that is born of a woman is of few days and full of trouble.' I don't know how many days Mr. Iturbi has left, but he will certainly have trouble."

Staff Holds Annual Dance

The staff of the Bank of Montreal in Victoria were hosts at their third annual dance on Wednesday evening, the affair being held in the Tudor grill at the Empress Hotel. The hotel orchestra supplied the music, and the supper tables were attractive with spring flowers. Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Harman welcomed the guests.

The invited guests were: Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Harman, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. McCabe, Mr. and Mrs. D. MacGregor, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Manson, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. S. "Mounties" Aid Destitute Mother

Canadian Press
Calgary, Feb. 5.—Two baby girls, two weeks old, are not wanted by Calgary rooming house owners because they might "cry and disturb other roomers," Mrs. Viola Brown, wife of a Peace River district homesteader, and mother of the twins, Marlene and Darlene, discovered.

Almost destitute, Mrs. Brown and the children were saved from the possibility of spending a night in the open by Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

She had only $2 obtained from the city relief department, and at nightfall, after tramping the streets all day, had been unable to obtain a room. Because of the twins she was refused lodgings at several places and finally had to seek the aid of police, who found accommodation for her.

After leaving the hospital Monday, she had a room for the night, but had to leave because roomers objected to the babies crying.

Social service organizations came to her assistance yesterday, arranging accommodation and providing food while police were attempting to get in touch with her husband, who homesteads near Whitelaw, Alta., in the Peace River country. She was not heard from him for a month.

Mrs. Brown had been staying at Olds, Alta., with relatives, coming to a Calgary hospital two weeks ago.

Will Bar Girls From Billboards

Olympia, Wash., Feb. 5.—The beautiful lass smiling from the magazine cigarette advertisement on the billboard, may find herself in sudden eclipse in the State of Washington if a bill introduced in the House today is enacted.

The "person, firm, association or corporation," who put her there would be guilty of a misdemeanor under terms of the bill, offered by Rev. W. R. Robinson, Yakima representative.

The bill specifically would ban use in advertising of pictures of "any real or imaginary child, or girl, or woman."

Fewer Royal Courts This Year

Three In London
And One
At Holyrood Castle

Special Correspondent

London.—There will be this year only three royal courts in London at which debutantes may be presented to the King and Queen instead of the usual four or five, the Lord Chamberlain announces.

This decision has been taken because of the great number of other engagements on Their Majesties' Coronation year programme.

Two of the courts will be held early in May, and the third will be held in July.

An evening court will also be held at the historic Holyrood Palace during July, and women whose homes are in Scotland should, it is stated, preferably apply to attend this court instead of the London ones.

The court at Holyrood Palace—for ever linked in memory with the name of Mary Queen of Scots—is a reminder of the fact that the Queen is a Scotswoman, as well as a complement to her fellow countrywomen.

Because the court will be in Scotland, the Royal Company of Archers, the King's bodyguard for Scotland, will be on duty in the state rooms during the presentations.

Their dashing uniforms of green cloth, embroidered with golden thistles, and their cocked hats of black silk with a plume of green feathers will give a truly Scottish note of pageantry to the scene.

The two pages of honor attending the King and Queen will also wear green. They will have tunics of green poplin and three-cornered hats trimmed with green feathers.

In procedure, the courts—the first to be held by King George VI and Queen Elizabeth—will follow exactly the lines of those held during the reign of King George V and Queen Mary.

Only women wishing to make presentations, not those wishing to be presented, may send in applications to the Lord Chamberlain's office at St. James' Palace. In addition to her daughter or her daughter-in-law, a woman may present only one other for whom she must, in the words of the official announcement, "be responsible."

Husbands may accompany their wives only if they have themselves been presented at a levee.

CLOTH WORTH $70 A YARD
Thirty-five of the world's finest needswomen have begun the fashioning of the coronation pall, which will be held over the King and Queen during the anointing ceremony at the coronation on May 12.

Cloth of gold, costing £14 ($70) a yard, will be used, it is expected, to make the pall, or canopy as it is sometimes called.

The needswomen have been chosen by Lady Smith-Dorrien, principal of the Royal School of Needlework. They are all regular workers at the school, the most famous of its kind in Great Britain. The Queen, herself, is its president.

Besides working the royal pall, the needswomen will work on the King's coronation robe—which was made at the school in 1902 for King Edward VII. They will also probably embroider the Queen's dress and train.

The King's robe is to be sent to the school shortly to be thoroughly examined and repaired if necessary. It is of cloth of gold, embroidered all over with emblems of the British Isles—red Tudor roses, green shamrocks, purple thistles and silver eagles.

Inch by inch the robe will be gone over by these expert craftsmen. Loose threads will be fastened down and worn embroidery will be reworked.

The golden pall will be made entirely at the school. Half a dozen girls and older women are working on the silver eagles which will be applied on to the pall border. There will be eighteen of these eagles round the edge.

Two samples of cloth of gold.

Queen Mary Sees C.P.R. Film

Huge Crowd At Premiere Of
"The Great Barrier"

Canadian Press Cable

London, Feb. 5.—Queen Mary attended last night the premiere of the motion picture, "The Great Barrier," which depicts the titanic task of building the Canadian Pacific Railway line across the Rocky Mountains.

A fashionable audience awarded the Gaumont-British presentation spontaneous applause, although possibly more for the excellent photography amid rugged Rocky Mountain grandeur than for the romantic plot—seemingly inevitable in the cinema—entwined around an admittedly dramatic plot.

The premiere coincided with the opening of the new Gaumont theatre, Gaumont, in the Haymarket. It is one of the most elegant and modern cinemas in the world.

A great crowd surged through the street despite rain as the Queen Mother arrived. Extra police kept them within bounds.

Proceeds of the night, more than $15,000, were given to the "after motherhood" charity appeal under the chairmanship of Mrs. Stanley Baldwin, who attended with the Queen Mother.

After the show Lord Dunsannon, son of the Earl of Bessborough and keenly interested in dramatics, told the Canadian Press he thought "it was an excellent picture with the most fascinating photography."

Knox W.M.S.—Knox Presbyterian W.M.S. held their regular meeting on Tuesday afternoon, with the president, Mrs. M. Costa, in the chair. After the devotional period taken by Mrs. Ritchie and Mrs. Cooper, much business was discussed. An invitation from Mrs. F. W. MacKinnon to meet at her home next month, was gratefully accepted, and it was decided to leave until then the discussion of a special effort for increased membership and offerings—Easter time. An interesting letter from a missionary at Tamsui, Formosa, was read and one of the members asked to send one to the writer, Mrs. Dickson, thanking her. The meeting closed with Miss Benediton, followed by a social half hour.

from which the pall will be made, have arrived at the school. One of the samples is pure cloth of gold, and is priced at £14 ($70) a yard.

The canopy will be lined with rich white satin, and supported at each corner by four slender silver poles made by a famous court jeweler. The whole pall will be edged with silver tassels.

One of the women now working upon the eagles also helped to make the pall—which was used at King Edward VII's Coronation. She is Miss H. Girdlestone.

"I came here in 1902 especially to help make the canopy, and I have remained at the school ever since," she explained to a reporter as her needle flashed in and out of the silver cloth from which she was fashioning one of the eagles.

"I have been very happy here, and I am thrilled to think that I am now helping in the preparations for another coronation."

Meanwhile, Lady Smith-Dorrien, who is now one of the busiest women in London, was making arrangements for another visit to the Queen, to discuss designs for Her Majesty's robes.

"The Queen, who is president of the school, has asked us to submit designs for the embroidery of her coronation dress and train, and we are hoping that the work will be done at the school," explained Lady Smith-Dorrien.

"In the other part of the design we have included the thistle, the Tudor rose, the shamrock, and the daffodil instead of the Welsh leek. The train itself will be made of royal purple velvet, the texture of which is so perfect that the firm where it is woven can turn it out only at the rate of three yards a week. The design chosen will be carried out in gold and silver and perhaps a little diamond."

Generous Response To Jubilee Linen Shower

About 900 Pieces of Linen and $90.35 in Cash Received Yesterday; Mrs. E. W. Hamber Welcomed by Women's Auxiliary.

The chilliness of the outside elements yesterday afternoon had little effect on the warm-hearted friends of the Royal Jubilee Hospital, judging by the splendid response made to the annual linen shower. In all, approximately 900 pieces of linen, including 300 bath towels, and $90.35 in cash was received during the afternoon, gladdening the hearts of the sponsors, the Women's Auxiliary, and replenishing supplies which have been severely taxed the last few weeks.

DISTINGUISHED GUEST
Mrs. E. W. Hamber chose the occasion to pay her first visit to an Auxiliary function and was received by Mrs. L. G. W. Tully, the acting president, in the absence through illness of the president, Mr. J. Phetean, together with Mrs. P. E. Taylor, second vice-president, and Miss Mitchell, superintendent of nurses.

Mrs. Hamber, who was accompanied by Mrs. M. Rice, showed great interest in the mounting piles of snowy linen. She was entertained at tea; others seated around the prettily decorated guest table including Mrs. Tully, Mrs. Taylor, Miss Mitchell, Mrs. J. H. D. Hunter, Mrs. Hugh Allan, Mrs. Vaughan Roberts and Mrs. Lennox Irving. Mrs. Hamber was presented with a corsage bouquet of rosebuds and freesias.

The general tea arrangements were in charge of Mrs. Elizabeth Sheppard and her committee: Miss Curry, Mrs. Guy Ford, Mrs. Victor Price and Mrs. H. Peterson. Presiding at the buffet, which was lighted with pale gold candles in silver sconces and decked with daffodils and pussy-willows in a wide silver bowl, were Mrs. J. H. D. Hunter and Mrs. Lennox Irving, first, then later Mrs. Sutherland Brown and Mrs. R. H. B. Ker.

MUSICAL NUMBERS
A delightful musical programme included songs by Miss Marjorie Benson, accompanied by Miss Ellen Davidson, and duets by Miss Phyllis Desville and Mr. Dudley Wickett, accompanied by Mr. P. T. C. Wickett. Presiding in the room given over to the receipt of donations were Mrs. Vaughan Roberts, having charge of the cash donations, and Mrs. Dillabough, assisted by Mrs. Crimp, Mrs. David Scott, Mrs. Longstaff and Mrs. B. A. Ross being in charge of the linen donations. At the receipt of cash in the tea room was Mrs. E. H. Griffiths.

CASH DONATIONS
Cash was received from: Mrs. T. W. Walker, Mrs. Goodlake, Mrs. C. J. Price, Mrs. H. H. Shandley, Mrs. R. F. Green, Mrs. Vaughan Roberts, Mrs. A. D. Whittier, Mrs. J. L. Crimp, Doug. Hunter, Mrs. E. Davis, Mrs. W. E. J. Skins, Mrs. P. R. Brown, Dr. T. V. Walker, Mrs. R. H. B. Ker, Mrs. F. V. Longstaff, Mrs. Eric Hamber, Dr. and Mrs. Thos. Miller, Mrs. D. Scott, Mrs. B. Connors, Mrs. H. A. Porter. Face cloths: Mrs. W. H. Bullock-Webster, Miss M. I. Curry, Mrs. D. D. Muir, Mrs. R. J. Robertson, Mrs. O. Bale, Mrs. P. Ball, Mrs. T. H. Leach, Miss Amy Angus, Miss M. Bullock-Webster, Mrs. Alex McDermott, Mrs. H. J. Wason, Mrs. E. M. Harris, Mrs. P. D. Little, Mrs. P. F. Curtis, Miss E. M. McKenney, Mrs. Murray Anderson.

SHEETS AND TOWELS
Hand towels and sheets: Sisters of St. Ann, Mrs. R. W. Gibson, G. Egerton, G. Egerton, Mrs. S. J. Drake, Mrs. R. B. Horton, Miss K. Agnew, Mrs. E. D. Todd, Mrs. R. W. Oliver, Mrs. Murray Anderson, Mrs. E. E. Code, Lady Richard Lake, Mrs. E. H. Griffiths, Miss Seater, Mrs. Lennox Irving, Mrs. J. O. Wilson, Mrs. E. M. Harris, Mrs. H. Jutson Fisher, Mrs. L. A. Heisterman.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRFD

DISTRACT CHILD'S ATTENTION FROM DETAILS OF DRESSING

I doubt if any mother has ever discovered an infallible method of getting small children dressed expeditiously and pleasantly. For, however amiably a small baby accepts these attentions, the child from fourteen months on resents violently the infringement of his liberty which to be dressed necessitates.

There are some ways which work better than others. It has been found, for instance, that socks can be put on and shoes laced more speedily if the child is seated in a high chair or nursery chair. Then a shirt or a nightgown may be put on and buttoned, without the struggle to keep the child on his back (or stomach) which ensues when he is dressed on a bed.

Then the only ceremonies reserved for bed dressing are the adjustment of diapers, or panties and the putting on of suit or petticoat and dress. It is always well to surprise the child with some toy from his collection which will win his exploration and attention long enough for him to be insinuated into his clothes. The attraction may be a special one used only at dressing time, or it may be a chain of safety pins, or any empty powder can or a small jar of cold cream which has all the interest of the novel and the added enchantment of belonging to mother.

As soon as the baby shows the slightest desire to help, even if it is nothing more complicated than to lift an arm or a leg on request this tendency should be encouraged. It is only a few steps from this to the point where the child will be tugging

Grand Pageant to Be Held at
First United Sunday
Afternoon

On Sunday afternoon at 2.45 o'clock a pageant will be presented in the auditorium of the First United Church, for which a unique programme has been arranged by the Sunday School. Invitations have been issued to Sunday schools of every denomination to attend and witness the story of seventy-five years in the life of the Sunday School of the First United Church.

The Salvation Army band will render a programme of sacred music and also supply trumpet fanfares during the progress of the pageant, which is divided into five scenes covering the period from the year 1883 to the present.

In the first episode, Judge Cameron unveils the corner stone of the original church on Pandora Street. All the events will be narrated by Alexander Crawford, one of the young people. The second episode deals with the move from Pandora Street to the present site, when members of the junior department will parade with banners and unveil the stone. In episode three the period of the World War is visualized and Mrs. W. H. Wilson, well-known soloist, who was a scholar in the Sunday School for several years, will sing "In Flanders Fields."

Scene four deals with the church union in 1925, when the various denominations appear with banners, followed by the procession of the C.G.I.T. girls, led by Miss Lauretta McGill. The last episode deals with the present year, with various departments taking part.

During the offering, J. Smith, who will be at the organ, will render his "Twilight Reverie," written for the occasion and dedicated to the memory

BRITAIN SHAPES HEALTH PLANS

London, Feb. 5.—The government's plans for improvement of the nation physically were made public yesterday in the form of a white paper.

It is proposed to develop and supplement the existing national health and educational services. Existing machinery will be fully utilized for the expansion and development of physical education in schools.

The government desires to ensure adequate opportunities for physical recreation for youths and adults whose lives are normally passed in offices and work shops.

No compulsion in physical training is contemplated. It is proposed to establish national advisory councils, one for England and Wales and one for Scotland, and to provide and maintain a national college of physical training.

Father of Late Huey Long Dies

Winnfield, La., Feb. 5.—Huey Pierce Long Sr., eighty-four, father of the late U.S. Senator Huey Long, died yesterday after an extended illness.

Although his son established a "dictatorship" in Louisiana, the senior Long held only one public office during his long lifetime, that of a Democratic presidential elector in the last general election.

Another son, Earl Long, is at present Lieutenant-Governor of Louisiana.

The Family Doctor

By DR. MORRIS FISHER

One of the most "romantic" of all the diseases that afflict mankind is that called hemophilia. This is the disease that affects the former royal families of Spain and Russia—a condition of a peculiar hereditary character, limited to males of the family, but transmitted by females.

In hemophilia, the clotting time of the blood is very much prolonged, so that a person with this ailment may bleed to death without anyone being able to cause the blood to clot successfully. In these cases, the number of red blood cells and white blood cells usually is normal when bleeding begins.

Moreover, the condition is distinguished from purpura, described in the previous article, by the fact that the blood platelets are also not diminished. In fact, they are sometimes increased over the normal in response to the bleeding that occurs. Hence, in hemophilia it is not platelets, but some other element necessary for the clotting process that is missing.

Many investigations have been made all over the world in an attempt to find out just what happens in the blood of a person who is hemophilic.

It seems likely that the defective coagulation in some cases may be due to difficulty in the formation of the blood-clotting element called thrombin, but the cause for the deficiency in this element has not yet been determined.

There happens to be still another element in the blood called anti-thrombin, which interferes with clotting, and it has been said that an excessive amount of this substance is responsible.

The chief symptom in hemophilia is, as has already been mentioned, the bleeding. In these cases bleeding frequently follows an injury which, in a normal person, would not bleed. Cases are known in which the pulling of a tooth, a scratch with a needle, or a slight nose bleed has become a hemorrhage which resulted in death.

The person with hemophilia will have bruises under the skin, with the formation of large masses of blood, but will not have spots of the type that occur in purpura. Bleeding from a slight injury occasionally will occur in a joint, resulting in a severe symptom that causes much distress.

Because of the severe character of this condition and the inability of medical science to control it, children with hemophilia seldom live to adult age. It is almost impossible for the average person to avoid slight bruises or accidents, and the hemophilic, therefore, is in constant danger of some accident that will cause death.

The most important measure of treatment in cases of hemophilia, of course, is to stop the bleeding when it occurs.

There are many different procedures used for the purpose. It is, of course, possible to pack a wound with gauze or cotton or to sew it together tightly.

Various aids to coagulation have been discovered which the doctor will apply to the wound in an effort to aid clotting by supplying the missing elements.

It is also possible to supply these elements by transfusion of blood directly into the veins.

In all cases, however, a hemophilic should be in constant contact with a doctor so that emergency measures may be applied whenever necessary.

CONFIDENTIAL REPORT

By DENNIS WHEATLEY
Copyright, 1937, NEA Service Inc.; William Morrow & Co.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

BOLITHO BLANE, British financier, disappears from yacht owned by his principal competitor, CARLTON ROCKS, off Miami. A note found in Blane's cabin, addressed to his secretary, NICHOLAS STODART, indicates suicide, since he faced bankruptcy. A memo written by Stodart shows Blane's company stock, ABOUT $100,000, closing at a new low that day.

Other passengers aboard the yacht GOLDEN GULL are Miss FERRI ROCKS, CARLTON ROCKS' daughter, LADY WELTER, REGINALD JOCELYN, MRS. JOCELYN, Lady Welter's daughter and son-in-law; the BIRMINGHAM OF BUDE, COUNT LUGMI POSODINI, and INOSKE HAYASHI. Detective Officer KETTERING, boarding yacht at Miami, finds strange marks on Blane's cabin carpet and K: No need to get fresh now. Were you changing all that time?

J: I don't see what the devil it's got to do with you but, if you must know, I spent a long time lying in my bath.
K: Thanks. Now, this trip. You were in, on the object of it, weren't you?
J: I don't understand what you mean.
K: Oh, yes you do. Bolitho Blane and Carlton Rocks were using this as a meeting ground to patch up a truce in the commercial war they've been waging.

on things if you wouldn't mind giving me your movements from the time the ship sailed until you went in to dinner.
P.J.: I am afraid that's not going to help you much and, after all, it's quite clear that this Mr. Blane took his own life, isn't it?
K: Sure—sure, Mrs. Jocelyn. It's only a matter of routine procedure that I have to bother everybody like this. Just where did you happen to be when the yacht left Miami?
P.J.: I was in the lounge with Count Posodini.
K: Anyone else there?

blood on curtain. Upon examination, Rocksavage admits, inviting Blane aboard to effect amalgamation of their companies. Cabin steward and ship's carpenter fill in next with routine details.

CHAPTER VI
DETECTIVE OFFICER NEAME'S SHORTHAND NOTES OF DETECTIVE OFFICER KETTERING'S EXAMINATION OF MISS FERRI ROCKSAVAGE.

K: Good morning, Miss Rocksavage. Come right in.
F.R.: Good morning.

K: Come and sit down. There are just a few questions I want to ask you about this unfortunate business last night.

F.R.: Certainly, anything I can do.

K: Would you just tell me, Miss Rocksavage, what you were doing, and where you were, from the time the yacht sailed until you went in to dinner.

F.R.: When the ship left Miami I was sitting on the port deck with Mr. Jocelyn.

K: Did you see Mr. Blane come aboard?

F.R.: No. We were on the port side of the ship; that is, we were facing out to sea. We sat there until about 7.15, and then we both went below to our cabins. I got interested in a book, so I was a little late in changing, and I didn't get up to the lounge until about 8.40. The other guests were all there, except Mr. Bolitho Blane and his secretary, neither of whom I had met, and I was just looking round for my father when the steward came up with a message from him.

F.R.: He said to me, "Mr. Rocksavage says, Miss, would you please take everybody in to dinner. Mr. Blane has had a heart attack, so we are returning to Miami."

K: And what happened then?
F.R.: I did as my father had asked me to and didn't know anything about what really happened until father told us all after we had anchored off Miami again, just a few minutes before the police came on board.

K: Did you know of any special reason for this trip?
F.R.: No.

K: Are you certain of that?
F.R.: Well, it's just a pleasure trip, like lots of others we've had on the yacht, but as there were several strangers on board I naturally assumed that some big business deal would be discussed during the time we were at sea. Father often uses these trips to entertain people with whom, if he were seen ashore, comment might be aroused which would affect the markets.

K: I see. Thank you, Miss Rocksavage. That'll be all for the moment.

DETECTIVE OFFICER NEAME'S SHORTHAND NOTES OF DETECTIVE OFFICER KETTERING'S EXAMINATION OF THE HONORABLE REGINALD JOCELYN.

K: Good morning, Mr. Jocelyn. Now, I'd just like you to tell me anything you can about this unfortunate affair last night.

J: I'm afraid I can't tell you anything.

K: Well, let's hear what you were doing between the time of the ship's sailing and your going in to dinner.
J: When the ship sailed I was sitting on deck with Miss Rocksavage. We stayed there until the ship was well out to sea and somewhere about 7.30 we went down to our cabins to change for dinner. I came up to the lounge at 8.30 and Mr. Rocksavage arrived soon after. A steward spoke to him and he went below, then a message came up that Mr. Blane was ill, so we were returning to Miami. After that we went in to dinner.
K: Do you always take an hour to change your clothes?
J: Sometimes an hour, and sometimes two if I feel like it.

Boston and Toronto Move Ahead In Major Hockey Campaign

THE SPORTS MIRROR

By PETE SALLAWAY

JIM BRADDOCK'S inactivity and apparent mediocrity has put ideas into the heads of young heavyweights. Joe Louis might have frightened them away had not Max Schmeling bounced the supposed negro terror around. But now Louis will have to flatten someone vastly more formidable than any of those he has ironed out since the Black Union caught up with him to again convince the newer crop that he is a super fighter. Until then, the Johnny-Come-Latelys will talk like Bob Pastor, and at least attempt to take a poke at the Brown Bomber.

There are big fellows today who would not dream of scaling the heights of a warrior of the calibre of Jack Dempsey nor the works.

Braddock coming from so far in the ruck and proof that Louis's knees will turn to wet blotting paper just like those of anybody else, has brought out the largest heavyweight field in years.

If Braddock could do it, so can they. reason Gunnar Barlund, Red Burman, Tom Beupre, Andre Lenglet, Phil Brukner, Bob Nestell, Max Roesch, Al McCoy, Art Oliver and Arturo Godoy, to name a few.

John Henry Lewis figures that he is wasting his talent and time as a light-heavyweight. Maxie Rosenbloom clamors for a shot at Louis in Los Angeles. Jack Peterson and Ben Ford are the British heavyweights in the field. Germany has a new one in Arno Koblin. Pierre Kober, the anguished Belgian, is pulling his creaky joints together for another whirl.

And why not? There is no way of telling how good Braddock can fight and Louis has yet to demonstrate that he can stick in there with a well-equipped battler who is not afraid of him. Braddock has not lifted a hand in defence of the crown since winning it from a lazy and complacent Max Baer in June, 1933. Braddock, who appeared to reach his peak as far back as 1929, when he failed to lift the 175-pound leadership from Tommy Loughran, was not rated highly when he went into the Baer engagement, and has done absolutely nothing since to strengthen his position.

Schmeling wants the title above everything else, and there is every reason to suspect that he has the correct slant in insisting upon the Braddock bout and no detours. The Pretzel Pounder's refusal of a $300,000 guarantee to give Louis another chance last fall is something in the way of evidence that he is not exactly certain in regard to what might happen in a second edition with Smokey Joe.

It is to Braddock's credit that no heavyweight champion ever democratized the title to the extent that he has. The plain Jersey stevedore has returned the crown to the ordinary gymnasium. Not long ago, sport scribes saw a half dozen glove-men shadow-boxing in one ring in stuffy Stillman's Gymnasium in New York. One of them was Braddock.

Even when the division lost prestige with the retirement of Gene Tunney, the champions continued to work off by themselves, usually at some fashionable resort. Considerable fuss was made over the workouts of Schmeling, Jack Sharkey, Primo Carnera and Baer.

Braddock hopped into the ring and did everything but kiss Schmeling the night the Teuton knocked out Louis.

The former stevedore is a caller at the camps of the principals in all important scraps. Jersey Jim dropped in on Louis at Pompton Lakes the other afternoon and remarked that the darky's only weakness was fried chicken.

Working at Stillman's with Pastor, he appeared no more important. He took as much interest in Pastor as the collegian's handiers, and easily might have been mistaken for a sparring partner with a healthy rooting interest.

Former Engage In Scoring Spree To Swamp Canadiens

Bruins Uncork Real Scoring Strength In Beating Leaders 6 to 2

Rangers and Detroit Tie

The task of making the final third of this season's National Hockey League race exciting enough to keep the stadium comfortably packed has been tossed in the laps of the boys fighting it out for the runner-up positions.

Montreal Canadiens and Detroit Red Wings have indicated clearly they will finish on top and New York Americans and Chicago Black Hawks have given as definite signs they will still be bedded down in the cellar when play-off time rolls around.

So fan interest switches to the fight between Montreal Maroons and Toronto Maple Leafs for second spot in the Canadian division and the scrap between New York Rangers and Boston Bruins for the same spot in the American section.

The second spot in both divisions was more open today because of the results of three games last night. Toronto moved within three points of Maroons by edging out a 2 to 1 win over Americans in New York, and Boston came within a game and a half of Rangers by defeating Canadiens 6 to 2, while Rangers and Detroit were playing a 2 to 2 tie.

MAY CATCH LEADERS

Of course, there is still a possibility Maroons or Leafs might catch Canadiens and a better one that Bruins or Rangers might overtake Red Wings. But the odds are against it.

Americans outplayed Leafs in New York last night by a slight margin but the best they could do in the way of scoring was Tony Hemmerling's goal in the first period. Leafs matched it with Sylvain Appa's counter in the same session, and Happy Day won the game in the third with his first goal of the season.

Canadiens seemed rooted to the ice in their clash with Bruins at Montreal. For Bruins, Gettiffe had two goals, Sands one and Cowley assisted in three. Dit Clapper scored twice and Bill Hollett tallied the other Bruin counter. Paul Haynes and Aurel Joliet scored the Habitant goals in the third.

Babe Pratt's second-period goal gave Rangers their tie with Red Wings. Lynn Patrick had started the scoring in the first but Wings went ahead on counters by Larry Aurie and Mud Bruneteau and the Pratt effort came as a lifeline.

FIGHTERS TO SIGN MONDAY

Preparations Go Ahead for Staging Louis-Braddock Fight at Chicago

Chicago, Feb. 5.—A world heavyweight championship match between titleholder James J. Braddock and challenger Joe Louis, with its prospects of a $1,000,000 gate, went into the site stage today.

Contracts for the fifteen-round bout, to be held June 15, will be signed Monday afternoon by Louis and Braddock, said Joseph Triner, chairman of the state athletic commission.

The bout, to be promoted jointly by the Illinois Sporting Club and Mike Jacobs, who holds exclusive rights to Louis's services, originally was set for Soldier's Field on the Lake Michigan shore, scene of the $2,500,000 Dempsey-Tunney battle.

Lou Comiskey, White Sox president, gained prompt consideration, however, through an insistent and attractive offer to use the White Sox park.

$25 TOP PRICE
Lionel Levy, New York architect and veteran fight layout builder, said Comiskey Park could be arranged to seat 75,000 fans, with a maximum gate of $1,100,000, at a $3 to $25 price range. Soldier's Field can be arranged for 130,000 seats, but the rental there may be as high as 15 per cent of the gate.

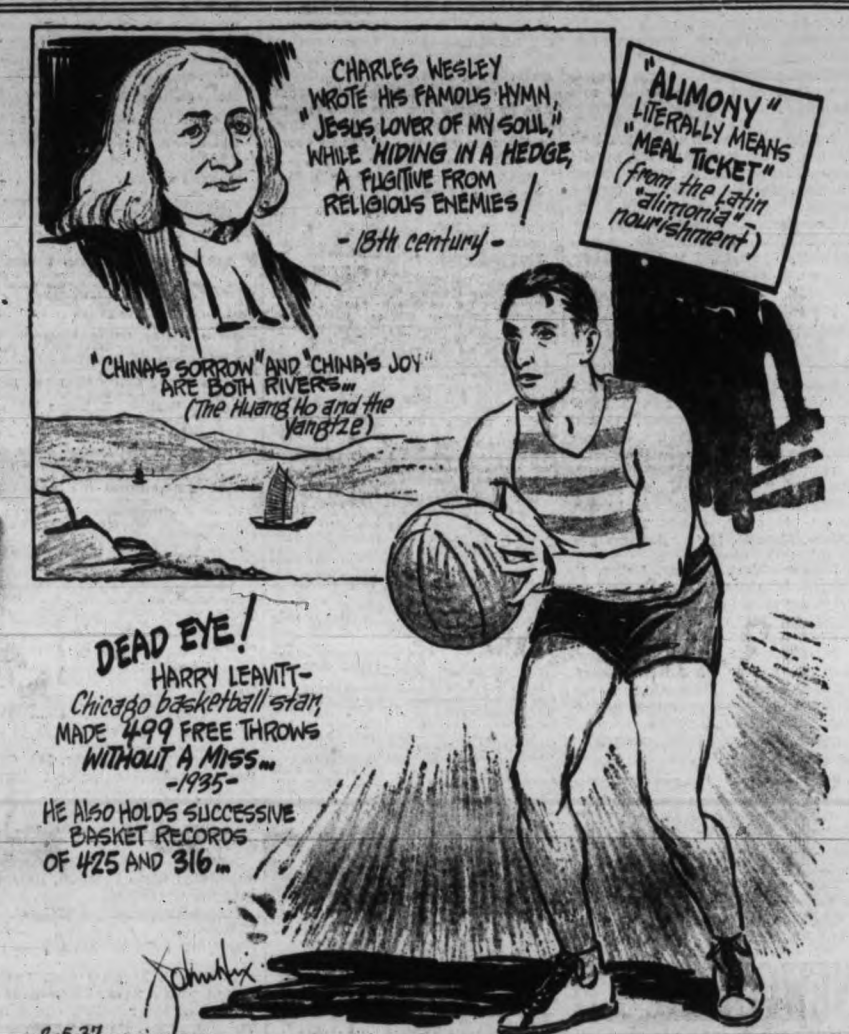

Trainer's announcement that Braddock and Louis would sign next Monday, came after a meeting yesterday.

Contracts, already drawn, call for the appearance of both principals in Illinois by May 1.

Triner said "It's up to Joe Gould (Braddock's manager) to get out of it anyway he can" in commenting on the Madison Square Garden contract which calls for a championship bout June 3, in New York between Braddock and Max Schmeling, German battler.

HEDGE HYMN
The eighteenth son of the Rector of Epworth and the younger brother of John Wesley, founder of Methodism, Charles Wesley was reared in intensely religious surroundings in the early eighteenth century. Educated at Christ Church, Oxford, he there gained the name of "Methodist." He began, he says, "to observe the method of study prescribed by the university. This gained me the harmless nickname of Methodist." It is believed this was one of the reasons for the naming of the religion which he later assisted his brother, John in spreading.

An active itinerant preacher from 1739 through 1786, Charles Wesley was one day preaching in the fields of Killislee parish, County Down, Ireland, when he was attacked by a group of objects to his doctrine. Fleeing, he sought refuge at a farm house and was told to hide in the garden. Concealed in a hedge with the voices of pursuing men around him, he calmly occupied his time by writing a hymn, destined to be the famous "Jesus, Lover of My Soul."

Strange as it seems, Charles Wesley wrote a total of approximately 6,500 hymns.

CHINA'S SORROW AND JOY
When the swollen Huang Ho jumped its banks in 1937 and spread stark desolation through mile upon mile of the populous valley in which it flows, the river brought death to millions of Chinese. Though a literal translation of the name means "Yellow River," it is more commonly referred to by the title which it has so well earned, "China's Sorrow." In its periodic rages, the river has killed tens of millions and brought famine to the Chinese of the region again and again.

The Yangtze Kiang (Great River) is known as "China's Joy." Though it, too, is subject to floods, its work of destruction has been small in proportion to the advantages it brings to the Chinese. Besides being a necessary factor in agriculture, the Yangtze Kiang, together with its tributaries, supplies China with 12,000 miles of navigable waterways, an important aid to the development of the country.

JOCKEY CHAMPION IS TRACK ENIGMA

Basil James, Leading U.S. Rider in 1936, Capable of Perfection But Rides Some Races Like Country Fair; to Pilot Indian Broom in Santa Anita Handicap

By ROBERT MYERS
Associated Press Sport Writer
Los Angeles, Feb. 4.—Basil James, seventeen-year-old son of a rodeo broncobuster and trained to ride on the rough-and-tumble "bush" tracks of the west, was the United States outstanding jockey in 1936.

A skinny little fellow with a timid smile and eyes as cold and grey as a man of forty, James had a leg up on 243 winners last year.

James works at the jockey trade. He reaches the track around 10 o'clock in the morning, gallops a mount or so, and retires to the jockey-room. It is locked at noon. After the day's racing, he rests.

Comment on the criticism, and there was plenty of the way he rode many a winner to victory, and James's eyes grow a little chillier.

"I've had a few disqualifications," he explained. "So have some others. You gotta take the bitter with the sweet."

Track observers have said James's riding at times is perfection in artistry, as witness the day last spring at Tanforan when he rode Indian Broom, owned by Major A. G. Taylor of Vancouver to a new world's record of 1.47.3 for a mile and an eighth, breaking Discovery's time of 1.48.1.

SEVERAL DISQUALIFICATIONS
At other times, so the critics say, James's work in the saddle is more like a country fair. He had hardly ridden his first horse at Santa Anita this year before the stewards slapped a $100 fine on him for cutting across the field at the start. He was disqualified five times at Bay Meadows, and fined up in the hundreds.

Asked what his greatest thrill on the track was, he replied promptly: "I rode four winners in a row at Washington Park last summer. That was it. I did it again a day or so later."

James will ride Indian Broom in the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap on February 27. Under contract of F. H. Rose's Tranquility Farms of Chicago, he will take the Vancouver candidate of Major Taylor to the post with "a good chance of winning."

Charlton Should Hold Soccer Lead

Dominoes Play Seattle Stars

Led by Joe Murray, star of the Ben Franklin Club, an all-star aggregation, constituting the best Seattle has to offer in the way of ball-juggling artists, will invade the city tomorrow night when they will engage Dave Nicol's Dominoes at the High School gym. The show will open at 8 o'clock with a preliminary game between Gainers Superiors and Jack Taylor's Cardinals, women's squads. The Multnomah Athletic Club, which was originally billed to play here have found it impossible to fill their engagement, thus the reason of the change.

Just what players will accompany the talkative Mr. Murray has not been revealed, although Jack Taylor, president of the Victoria and District Basketball League, said today the squad will be made up from the crack teams in the Community League.

LANE TAKES THREE TITLES

Dominates Finals of Victoria Badminton Club Championships

George Lane, the young fellow who came up from nowhere about three years ago to annex his first major badminton crown and has kept winning consistently since that time, added just three more laurels to his already abundant collection last night.

He featured an evening of sparkling play by retaining his men's singles championship with a walk-away 15-3, 15-2 victory over Roy Hurdle as Hurdle met in the Victoria Badminton Club title play at the Willows. To complete the evening he teamed with Mrs. Young to score an easy victory in the mixed doubles, beating Miss D. Greaves and Hugh Francis 15-4, 15-4, and then partnered Des Biesdale to beat Frank Tyrrell and Hugh Francis 15-3, 15-13 in the men's doubles.

Hurdle, lacking Lane's experience, made little headway against the superior placements of his opponent and was never a serious challenger.

Mrs. Young was extended to beat Winnie McAdam in the women's singles. Behind 10-4 in the opening game, she rallied to draw even at 10 to 10 and ran out 13-10 in the opening game and then scored an 11-7 victory in the second to take the title.

Mrs. Young shared in her third triumph in the women's doubles, partnering Mrs. Heywood to a 15-7, 15-12 victory over Kay Harris and Mrs. Foote.

Prizes were presented by Mrs. Arthur Poyntz, wife of the club president.

Oakland Club Wants to Play Its Home Games at Spokane in Coast League

Seattle, Feb. 5.—The Pacific Coast Hockey League threatened today to become a northwest circuit, as league directors discussed whether Jack Arbour's Oakland club should be permitted to play its remaining games in Spokane.

Phil Lyette, Seattle president, indicated he would oppose Arbour's planned transfer, asserting it would disrupt plans to have a six-team circuit next year, including Los Angeles and San Francisco, as well as Oakland.

Arbour said the Clippers would move to Spokane next week for their home games, but Lyette pointed out Spokane's open-air rink might keep away the crowds.

Spokane was entered into the league before play began last fall, but Arthur Ruoff, franchise holder, switched to Oakland.

Pacesetters in English First Division Will Oppose West Bromwich Albion tomorrow; Arsenal Engages Manchester United; Good Matches in Scottish Loop

London, Feb. 5.—Failure of Arsenal to land points in a mid-week battle with Derby County increases Charlton Athletic's prospects of winning its first English Football League championship. And that in its initial season in the major division.

While the Gunners were fighting in the cup competition last Saturday, Charlton spurred into a one-point lead by drawing 2 to 2 with Middlesbrough. The margin was retained when Arsenal lost a 5 to 4 decision to Derby Wednesday. With West Bromwich Albion as opponents at the week-end, Charlton is picked to remain at the top of the table for another week at least.

Walloped 10 to 3 by Stoke City yesterday, West Bromwich can hardly hope to get even a point against the Londoners tomorrow, although the squad will have the advantage of playing at home. The Athletic is fielding an unchanged team.

OTHER BIG GAMES

Manchester United visit Highbury for the second time in eight days. Last Saturday the last-place Manchunians took a 5 to 0 trimming from Arsenal in a cup battle, and it is probable the forthcoming league battle will result in another reverse. On the other hand, Brentford has a good chance of avenging a 3 to 0 defeat inflicted by Derby County in the cup last week on the Midlanders' ground. Tomorrow's league battle will be staged in London.

Middlesbrough, bracketed with Brentford and Derby in third place with fifty-one points, is at home to the strong Grimsby Town outfit. The result may go either way. Everton entertained Sunderland in another outstanding first division fixture.

In the second division, Blackpool are away to Barnsley, but its position at the top of the league is secure. At present the seashore side has a six-point advantage over Plymouth-Argyle, at home to Chesterfield.

Brighton, leader of the southern section, third division, may find Northampton Town hard to beat on its own ground, but Chester, at the top of the northern section, should capture maximum points from Hartlepool United.

SCOTTISH LEAGUE

Glasgow, Feb. 5.—Pace for the Scottish Football League championship takes on new interest with removal of Glasgow Rangers from cup competition on league warfare. Dumbfries provide the opposition at the week-end, but the Glasgow players are not likely to be thwarted in the battle for points, although they are playing on foreign soil. The Fifers have struck a bad patch this season and now occupy the last rung of the league ladder.

On the other hand, Aberdeen goes to Motherwell, where tough opposition may be expected. The Fir Park outfit holds sixth place in the standing and usually puts up a great game before a home crowd.

AT TOP FORM

Only one point divides Hearts and Celtic, holders of third and fourth positions, respectively, and it is possible the positions will be reversed after the pair meet on the latter's ground at Parkhead. The Edinburgh club, conqueror of Rangers twice this season, is playing at top form, but ground advantage is a big argument in favor of the Celts.

A rousing tussle is probable at Cathkin Park, where Third Lanark entertain the fast-improving Hamilton Academicals, and the same can be said of the Falkirk-St. Johnstone clash on the former's ground. Dundee, tied with St. Johnstone in eighth position, plays host to Queens Park. The amateurs have a knack of turning in unexpected victories, and Dundee will be forced to fight hard for points. After a promising start, Dundee has fallen away in recent games.

Queen of South visit St. Mirren and other fixtures find Albion Rovers away to Partick Thistle, Arbroath and Kilmarnock battling on the former's ground and Hibernians and Clyde in Edinburgh.

In the second division, Ayr United occupies a strong position at the top with a five-point lead over Morton. The United is at home to Cowdenbeath tomorrow, while Morton visits King's Park.

The new course laid out on the slopes of Mount Norquay, at Banff, where no expense has been spared to make it one of the finest ski courses in the world, will be put to the test by skiers from all parts of the United States and Canada March 3 to 5 during the Dominion meet of the Canadian Amateur Ski Association and the Ski Runners of the Canadian Rockies. One thing the skiers, both men and women, can expect, and that is lightning-fast powder-snow that makes the Canadian Rockies unrivaled among the world's favored ski grounds. Duncan Star and Birch Battle In Highlight Today

Up-islander Faces Tough Hurdle in Defending Championship; Joyce Thomson Out

Miss Norrie in Doubles Triumph

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Feb. 5.—By virtue of somewhat easy victories in last night's play, Eric Leney, Duncan, and Margaret Taylor, Kelowna, kept invading badminton stars in the running of the British Columbia badminton championships as play narrowed to the semi-finals today.

Leney played a steady game to dust off E. H. Elliott, Vancouver, 15-6, 15-11, and in bracketed against champion Dick Birch today.

Miss Taylor's left-handed shots were too much for Ruth Seldon, Vancouver, and the British Columbia women's champion advanced to the semi-finals by scores of 15-9, 15-6.

Joyce Thomson, Victoria, lost to the number two seeded player, Miss Anna Kier Patrick, Vancouver, 11-5, 11-7, while Miss Daphne Fernie, Kamloops, defeated Mrs. A. J. Peet, Vancouver, 14-10, 11-4.

Mrs. Patrick will meet Miss D. Fernie in one bracket of the women's semi-finals, while Miss Taylor will encounter Vess O'Shea, Vancouver, in the other. Miss O'Shea defeated Joycelyn Pease, former Kelowna girl, 11-3, 13-11.

DOUBLES PLAY
Leney also gained the semi-finals of the men's open doubles and the mixed doubles. In the men's event he partnered young Johnny Samis, Vancouver, to brush aside D. E. Kerin and Dr. F. Penwill, Vancouver players, 15-2, 15-2. Leney and Samis will play Jack Allan and M. Atkinson, Vancouver, in today's bracket.

In the mixed open doubles, Leney and Ulicia Norrie, Duncan, defeated Miss D. Fernie and S. Burris, Kamloops, 15-9, 15-6, and will meet Miss A. Carter and M. Atkinson, Vancouver, today.

The Fernie sisters, Mary and Daphne, earned the right to meet the Misses

Former Baseball Manager Killed

Canadian Press
Oakland, Calif., Feb. 5.—Victim of an automobile accident, Harry Wolverton, sixty-four, former big league baseball player and manager of several minor league clubs, died here after being struck by an automobile on a downtown street last night.

Wolverton managed the New York Yankees in 1912. He piloted four Pacific Coast League teams. Taylor and Pease in the women's open doubles semi-finals when they defeated Miss Pam Thwaites, Parkville, and Peggy Macdonald, Victoria, in a second round match. They had previously defeated Miss Norrie, Duncan, and Victoria's Joyce Thomson in a first-round.

Jimmy Watt, Brentwood Club, Victoria, advanced in the boys under sixteen and boys under twenty events, and partnered with Joyce Thomson, gained the semi-finals of the mixed handicap.

NEWCOMER TO MEET RUMBERG
Jess Jessen, California, and Spokane Lad on Wrestling Card

A stranger to local followers of the mat game, Jess Jessen, former University of California grid star, will appear in Victoria tomorrow night when he is billed to do some heavy milking with Hal Rumberg, Spokane, in the five eight-minute rounds semi-main bout on the wrestling show at the Tillicum gym.

Little is known of the prowess of Jessen as a bone-bender, although he has been doing right well for himself in Seattle of late, beating quite a number of the top-notchers. Rumberg showed here last week and won via the straight falls route over "King Kong" Cox, Lodi, California.

The headline bout on the card will see Donald McIntyre, Glasgow, Scotland, exchange holds with Vic Christy, Glendale, California. Both have been rapidly scaling the ladder to the top of the heavyweight heap and a good battle should be the order of the night when they tangle in the eight ten-minute rounds affair.

Reggie Hopkins, rugged local exponent of grunt and groan, will be seen in action again. He will meet Al Garnot in the special event of five six-minute rounds.

Young Doc Sarpolis and Jim McGregor, a pair of local youngsters, will match holds in the opened at 8:30 o'clock, fifteen-minute affair than the usual starting time.

LONG SHOT IN RACE VICTORY

Ann O'Ruley Captures Feature Race at Santa Anita to Return $16.40

Los Angeles, Feb. 5.—A. A. Baron's Ann O'Ruley crashed into the winner's circle yesterday, capturing the $1,500 added San Raphael Handicap for fillies and mares, four years old and up, before 15,000 spectators at Santa Anita Park.
Ann O'Ruley, packing 107 pounds, won by a head over the more favored Gold Seeker, and Bandalora was third in the mile and one-sixteenth event. The time was 1:45.3.

The winner paid $16.50 to win, $5.80 to place and $4.60 to show. Gold Seeker paid $4.50 and $4.30 and Bandalora $5.40.

Margin In Points Gives Pedens Lead

Doug and Torchy Tied With Two Other Teams in Mileage in Six-day Bike Race at Buffalo; Eight Pairs Are Still in Fight

Buffalo, N.Y., Feb. 5.—Knocked out of the one-day lead they had held since the start of the six-day bike race Monday, Doug and Torchy Pedens, Victoria, B.C., shared a three-way tie for first place mileage honors today.

Technically, they still held the lead on points, however. For a while last night they yielded first place to two other teams. One was the Italian combination of Tino Reboli, Newark, N.J., and Charlie Yacino, Chicago.

The other was the Irish team of Henry O'Brien, San Francisco, and Russel Allen, San Jose, Cal.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Owing to inclement weather, a meeting of Ward Three Liberal Association to have been held in Liberal headquarters this evening, has been cancelled.

W. H. Davies, secretary of the Landings Aged Men's Fund, was accompanied on his monthly visit to the Home for Aged and Infirm by J. N. Anderson, making the monthly donation to non-pensioners. Chocolate bars were also distributed from the fund.

Carpenters of Victoria and district are invited to attend a meeting to be held at Labor Hall on Monday evening. A speaker will be on hand to explain the regulations recently brought into effect by the Industrial Relations Board and other matters of interest to the trade.

The Victoria Horticultural Society will hold its second pruning demonstration at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the garden of F. B. Barclay, 214 Howe Street. E. W. White, district horticulturist, will again be in charge. Anyone interested is invited to the demonstration.

Citizens of Victoria were reminded today that clearance of sidewalks abutting their property was their responsibility. The reminder came in the form of a request from city officials to residents to remove snow and slush from the walks in order to avoid the danger caused in case of frost.

The Canadian Anti-Vivisection Society will hold an open meeting on Friday evening, February 19, at the Y.W.C.A. The speaker will be G. E. Kitto, whose subject will be "The Errors of Louis Pasteur's Work, With a Criticism of the Pasteur Film." Refreshments will be served at the close of the evening, which will be semi-social in character.

"The Psychology of Religion" will be the subject of the address to be given this evening at the Emmanuel Baptist Church by Rev. Dr. F. E. Bennett, M.A., D.D., of Chicago, the noted scientist, lecturer and preacher. Tonight's meeting will be the climax of a series of special addresses on "The Greatest Power of the Human Mind," "Finding Yourself," and "Giving Yourself," which has been given by Dr. Bennett every night this week. The subject of tonight's meeting will be of particular interest to young people and students.

Ralph Dent, one of the representatives of B.C. youth at the Geneva World Youth Conference, gave an interesting talk on the economic findings of the congress at the weekly meeting of the Social Credit League of B.C. yesterday evening. In the discussion which followed Mr. Dent's talk, it was claimed that Social Credit would make the best traditions of the Canadian Youth Bill. The young people took a leading part in the discussion. It was decided to form a branch of the Junior National Dividend Club in Victoria, and interested young people were asked to send their names to the secretary at 244 Pemberton Building.

Victoria Girl to See Coronation

Victoria High School plans to send a girl instead of a boy to see the coronation of the King.

In the selection of places on the coronation trip sponsored by the Overseas Education League Victoria was invited to send a boy.

Harry Smith, High School principal, said application would be made to the Department of Education to have this changed.

Until the change was ratified announcement of the student picked would be withheld.

Publicity Bureau Finds Only Non-tourists Stopped at Border

Protests contained in letters to the press recently from prairie people who were compelled to take out British Columbia license plates for their cars on entry into this province have been examined by the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau in conjunction with the provincial police, and a statement on the subject has been issued.

The bureau finds that in no case has a visitor coming within the classification of tourist, to whom permits can alone be issued, been refused entry with his own province's license plates.

One of the complainants, the bureau reports, owned property within the province and was registered on the voters' list. Another informed police at the border when he entered the province in 1935 that he intended buying a farm and working it.

STATEMENT ISSUED

The statement reads: "Under the reciprocal motor license arrangement between British Columbia and other provinces in Canada, a tourist coming into British Columbia has no trouble whatsoever getting a permit for as long a period of stay in this province as his own province allows visitors from British Columbia."

"This Saskatchewan allows three months, Manitoba and Alberta six months and Ontario three months, and tourists from those provinces are given motor permits for a corresponding stay in British Columbia."

"During the first ten months of 1936 there were issued by provincial police at the Crow's Nest Pass 4,588 tourist permits, and at Radium 1,180 permits, making a total of 5,768 issued to visiting automobilists from other parts of Canada. (These figures do not take into account Canadians entering British Columbia through the United States.)"

"During the same period 1,006 motorists from the prairie provinces who did not come within the definition of tourists as laid down by the law, but were coming to British Columbia to look for work or to settle here, were required to take out British Columbia licenses."

REMOVAL OF PLATES
"With regard to the taking away of previous license plates from motorists to whom British Columbia permits have been granted but who have received British Columbia plates, the law does not allow two sets of current plates for one car, except in the case of commercial travelers, who are covered by a separate ruling. Therefore when British Columbia plates are issued to a newcomer his old plates are taken away, and, if he so wishes, returned to the motor vehicle department of the province from which he has come, and he is then at liberty to make a claim on such for a rebate."

Health Fund Head Answers Doctors

Insurance Plan Will Provide Over $1,000,000 for Medical Men, Says Allan Peebles; Want Doctors to Give It a Year's Trial

The B.C. Health Insurance Commission today answered the decision of the medical profession to reject its medical service payment plan.

Allan Peebles, commission chairman, claimed that his plan would provide more than $1,000,000 a year for doctors, suggested that some doctors could receive as much as $8,250 from it, and asserted that the real issue was whether or not the doctors would accept it on trial for one year.

"The chairman revealed nothing in the way of possible alternatives if the doctors persist in their refusal to accept the plan. His statement left the impression that the way is still open for negotiation on a settlement which will allow health insurance to go into force on March 1."

"The real question at issue between the Health Insurance Commission and the doctors is this—will the medical profession give the offer of the commission a trial for one year?"

"In this connection," said Mr. Peebles, "we think it is necessary to comment upon the statement made February 1, 1937, by Dr. Thomas McPherson, chairman of the Health Insurance Committee of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of British Columbia. This is evidently a reply to the proposals of the Health Insurance Commission regarding medical practice whereby the doctors would be paid $5.50 per insured person per year."

"There are five objections made by the doctors' committee, the first two of which might be summarized as follows:

"1.—No provision is made for indigent persons.

"2.—No provision is made for other groups with limited means."

ACT IS LIMITED

"These two objections show a fundamental misconception of the Health Insurance Act. The Health Insurance Commission is bound by a law which covers employees and their dependents only. Indigent persons, old-age pensioners and the other groups are not employees, have not the money to pay the necessary assessments, and therefore cannot be covered by the act. The act is entirely beyond the control of the commission. In no health insurance system throughout the world are indigent persons included."

"A further objection is that there is a lack of hospital facilities. As for this point it should be made clear that, without health insurance if a patient needs hospitalization and the space is available, he obtains this service, but must meet the bill himself. With health insurance the same procedure will be followed, except that the patient will not have to worry about the bill."

PAY FOR DOCTORS

"The real objection is that the payment is inadequate. As for the adequacy of remuneration, it is only fair to point out that the medical profession charge in accordance with the time-honored principle of ability to pay—that is, the higher the income of a man, the higher the fees charged him as a rule. It is reasonable to apply this same principle to health insurance methods."

"At the instance of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of British Columbia, the income limit of those to be covered by health insurance was reduced from $2,400 a year to $1,800 a year. The report of the hearings committee on health insurance, reads as follows: 'The major consideration of the committee in suggesting that the limit of $2,400 be reduced to $1,800, is the desirability of obtaining the co-operation of the medical profession.'"

"The commission, as the custodian of the funds to be collected from employers and employees, thinks that it is not justified in offering more than $5.50 per insured person per year. The commission believes that this amount will give to the physicians more money from the insured group than they ever received from this group before. On this basis more than $7,000,000 will be paid each year to the doctors. For every 1,000 insured persons (not patients) the doctors will receive $5,500. If a man, his wife and three children are covered, a total of $27.50 per year will be paid to physicians."

"It should be pointed out that a considerable number of those covered will not consult physicians in any one year, but the doctors will be paid for everyone whether they are ill or not. Putting it another way, if four doctors together provided all the medical services to a total of 6,000 insured persons, they would receive a total of $33,000 or an average income of $8,250. This would mean 1,500 persons on the average per doctor."

"This is a reasonable figure, as is seen by the fact that in England a doctor is permitted to look after as many as 2,500 persons. The doctors' committee maintains that $5.50 per insured person is not adequate payment. The commission, especially considering the reduced income limit of those covered by the act, is confident that this sum represents adequate payment."

FREE CHOICE, NOT PANEL

"The final objection is that a panel system will lower medical standards. The system proposed by the commission is not a panel system. With free choice of physician, with free choice of consultant or surgeon if the need arises, with free choice of doctor for maternity cases, the commission's plan is not at all comparable with the panel system of England."

"In British Columbia at the present time some 25,000 employees are members of medical service plans far more rigid than the system proposed by the Health Insurance Commission."

Under these conditions the employee is compelled to pay his monthly medical fee. Furthermore, he is compelled to accept the services of a particular physician, often appointed by the employer. Yet the College of Physicians and Surgeons have never taken any effective steps to curb this type of practice, nor is it generally recognized that the standard of medical practice in British Columbia has been lowered by industrial medical plans of this nature.

"Under the commission's plan the basic safeguard against deterioration of medical practice lies in the ability of the insured to select the physician he desires. Pay for lowering the standard of medical practice, the plan will raise it. This is the experience in England with an insurance system not nearly as satisfactory as ours from the standpoint of protecting medical standards."

LAND SALES IN CITY OFF

Transfer of Property in Victoria Last Year Well Under Total for 1935

Despite a material increase in the value of land sold or transferred in Victoria last December in comparison with December, 1935, the total amount of property changing hands in 1936, was considerably below that in 1935. It was learned at the city assessor's office today.

The transfers and sales during the latter part of last year were well up to those of the second half of 1935, but inactivity during the first six months of 1936 left the total $761,551 below the aggregate for the preceding year.

Sales, transfers and altered ownership through wills, etc., totalled $115,414, $58,238 and $67,730, respectively, last December, against $68,351, $50,266 and $14,960 for the similar month of 1935, making last December's total $236,382 against $133,577 the preceding year.

The annual totals showed sales for 1936 to aggregate $865,958, against $155,266 for 1935. Transfers accounted for $854,981, against $735,957, and changes in ownership through wills, etc., stood at $385,552 last year, against $946,821 for the preceding twelve months.

These amounts represented a grand aggregate of $2,086,491 for 1936, against $2,838,044 in 1935.

VICTORIA AS AIR TERMINUS

City Should Be Important on Trans-Canada Airway System, Major MacLaren Says

"Victoria can, in the not far distant future, expect to be the western terminus of the proposed Trans-Canada Airway," Major Donald MacLaren, superintendent of the Pacific Division of Commerce of the Victoria Ltd., told directors of the Chamber of Commerce and members of the Capital City Commercial Club at luncheon today in Spencer's dining-room.

"It is just as important that this city be the western terminus as that Montreal or Halifax be the eastern terminus," Major MacLaren said. "We should look on the Canadian but from an air point of view. The city of Victoria might think of itself in terms of Empire air development."

Major MacLaren reminded the representative gathering of local business men that Victoria had no airport facilities suitable for the types of planes which will be used on the Trans-Canada Airway.

VICTORIA AIR-MINDED

"I think Victoria should find some way of overcoming this little difficulty," Major MacLaren said. "In my opinion, Victoria has always been very definitely air-minded."

A. G. MacDonald, operations secretary of the Canadian Airways at Winnipeg, spoke of the airplane exhibit now on view in David Spencer Ltd. and being shown by the Imperial Airways of London, in conjunction with Canadian Airways. This exhibit, he said, had been shown in New Zealand, South Africa, some European cities, London, the counties of England and Australia. It was brought to Canada for showing at the Toronto Exhibition and because thousands received it with such acclaim it has been exhibited across the country.

Harold Diggon, president of the Commercial Club, presided at the meeting and introduced Major MacLaren and Mr. MacDonald. Harold MacLaren, president of the Chamber of Commerce, thanked them for their talks.

"There must be an articulate public opinion in Victoria for an airport," Mr. MacLaren said.

Following the luncheon the guests were taken on a special visit to the exhibit which will open to the public tomorrow morning and show for a week.

A plea to assist the birds during the severe weather was voiced by W. H. Warren, city parks superintendent, yesterday as snow made it difficult for them to secure their feed. Large quantities of grain have been distributed by S.F.C.A. officials in the different parks and private individuals have assisted in distributing food in many parts of the city.

Funeral Chapel on Monday afternoon at 1:45 o'clock, after which interment will be in old Colwood Cemetery.

Tax Payments Continue Good

Highly Satisfactory Collections Reported on Prepaids and Arrears in City

Highly satisfactory returns through the medium of prepaid taxes during the first four days of February were reported today by George A. Oskell, city assessor-collector.

During the time payments totalled $20,000, raising the total for the year to date to approximately $334,000. While the figure was below that of the corresponding period last year, the fact that two or three major corporations have not yet prepaid and in view of the condition of the weather during the last five weeks, members of the department were confident the prepaid system would yield a more creditable return later in the month.

In the arrears division a total of $8,848 has been paid since the beginning of February. The figure is slightly ahead of the total for the same period last year.

Under the prepaid system, those who meet their current levies in advance enjoy an interest allowance of 5 per cent per annum from the date of payment until October, when actual payment falls due.

The career of Samuel Pierpont Langley was filled with disappointment. His supreme effort to build an airship that would fly ended in disaster when his ship fell in the Potomac, just a few days before the Wrights attained fame at Kitty Hawk, N.C.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING RATES
20 per word per insertion.
Minimum charge, 25c.
$1.25 per line per month.
Minimum charge, $2.50.

Births, $1.00 per insertion.
Marriages, $1.50 per insertion.
Deaths, $1.50 first insertion and $1.00 succeeding insertions.
Funeral notices, In Memoriam notices and Card of Thanks, $1.50 per insertion.

In computing the number of words in an advertisement, count five words for the first two lines and seven words for each line thereafter. This is not an absolute rule to the number of lines, much depending on the length of the individual words.

The Times will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion of any advertisement inserted for more than one week; any claim for rebate on account of errors or omissions must be made within thirty days from the date of the same, otherwise the claim will not be allowed.

Advertisers who desire it may have replies addressed to a box at the Times Office and forwarded to their private address. A charge of 10c is made for this service.

Subscribers wishing their address changed should notify this office as well as the carrier. If your Times is missing, phone E4175 between 8 p.m. and a copy will be sent by special messenger.

Announcements
CUTHBERTSON—On Wednesday, February 3, at St. Joseph's Hospital, Teresa Cuthbertson, aged fifty-three years, wife of George G. Cuthbertson, of 508 Curran Street, died after a long illness. Burial was held in the cemetery on Friday, February 5, at 10 o'clock. The funeral will take place on Saturday morning, February 6, at 10 o'clock, from the residence of Mr. Cuthbertson, 508 Curran Street. The Rev. Canon W. J. McCall, officiating. Friends are invited to attend.

DEATH
RITHET—On February 4, 1937, at Royal Jubilee Hospital, Velma W. Rithet, died after a long illness. Burial services will be held at St. Paul's Cathedral, Victoria, on Saturday, February 6, at 10 o'clock. The funeral will take place on Saturday morning, February 6, at 10 o'clock, from the residence of Mr. Rithet, 508 Curran Street. The Rev. Canon W. J. McCall, officiating. Friends are invited to attend.

CARD OF THANKS
I desire to thank the nurses of St. Joseph's Hospital for their most helpful and kind attention to my beloved wife, the late Mrs. Edith Cuthbertson, during her illness. Words fail me in expressing my sincere thanks to our mutual friends and relatives for their kind expressions of sympathy in attending the services and their many generous floral tributes. The funeral was held on Friday, February 5, at 10 o'clock, from the residence of Mr. Cuthbertson, 508 Curran Street. The Rev. Canon W. J. McCall, officiating. Friends are invited to attend.

Leaders Tangle I Heavy Selling On Wall Street Today

Associated Press

New York, Feb. 5.—Heavy selling waves broke over the stock market today, following President Roosevelt's recommendation to Congress for an increase in membership of the Supreme Court, and leading issues toppled one to five points.

The ticker tape was occasionally five minutes behind. The volume dwindled after the initial lull, when mild support appeared. Offerings expanded again in the final hour, but declines were once more reduced before the close. Transfers approximated 3,350,000 shares.

The chief executive's step overshadowed the General Motors strike negotiations which had kept many traders on the sidelines during earlier proceedings.

Buyers in the morning nibbled at selected rails, coppers and specialties, but most of these gave ground after noon.

Prominent on the losing side most of the day were U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, International Harvester, Auburn, Western Union, Seaboard Oil, General Electric and Loew's. Among those fairly resistant were Boeing.

Dow Jones averages closed today as follows:

Thirty Industrials—186.01, off 2.38.

Twenty rails—55.93, off 0.53.

Twenty utilities—35.08, off 0.63.

The range of today's Dow Jones averages was as follows:

MINES GAIN AT TORONTO

Canadian Press

Toronto, Feb. 5.—The mining market registered sizeable gains in oils and some golds and base metals today but the general tone was rugged. Paymaster dropped to 98 cents but firm. Dome lost a fraction to 4.40.

Calgary-Edmonton ending at 4.40, and Model, registered new high prices for recent years, the latter hitting the 81 mark for a gain of 20 cents.

Foundation about 20 cents, Potomac added 20 cents, S. W. Petroleum 40 cents, Okalta about 25 cents, Calmont 10 and Dalhousie 5. Royalties turned heavy and Home Oil declined about 15 cents.

Ventures, Hudson Bay and Noranda were lower. Sherritt held a minor advance.

Small losses showed for Francoeur, Sylvanite, Red Lake, Omega, Staden and Premier.

Futures Advance On Winnipeg Exchange

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, Feb. 5.—A last-minute rush to buy sent wheat prices shooting upward on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today, climaxing an erratic session. The close was 2 1/2 cents higher, May at 11.26 1/2, July 11.22 and October 11.11 1/2 to 11.11 1/2.

Bullishness was the predominant note in trade news. Prices fluctuated erratically as bursts of buying and selling alternated.

Tending to offset Argentina's continued heavy export movement of wheat as a market influence were reports Germany had purchased another two cargoes of Argentine wheat and that famine in Poland threatened to take on the proportions of a national disaster.

Export sales of Canadian wheat totalled 500,000 bushels and coincided with trade reports from Liverpool that United Kingdom millers were becoming increasingly aware of a possible wheat shortage there, in view of British purchases of Argentine wheat being diverted to Spain.

Liverpool closed 3d to 1/2 advanced. Chicago ran up smartly in early dealings but faltered toward the last, a trend quickly followed here.

Cash grains advanced were about unchanged. Coarse grains prices were piced by late realising.

RAIL BONDS CLOSE FIRM

New York, Feb. 5.—The bond market

walked a narrow path today. Despite a contra-seasonal decline in freight loadings, various rail liens improved a little.

U.S. Treasuries showed an uneven trend. The 3 1/2's were a little higher and the 3 1/2's of 1941 and 1946 down a bit.

Old Age Has Its Delights

Not So Much to Worry About

A GRANDMOTHER with snow-white hair was telling me the other day how much she enjoyed being old. "I am having the time of my life being seventyish," she said. "It is like coming in from the heat and glare, labor, sweat and struggle of midday into the cool grey of a peaceful twilight, when you can sit down and fold your hands and rest and have an hour or so for pleasure."

"No doubt this surprises you because we women are taught from our infancy that age is a woman's greatest foe; something more to be dreaded than anything else on earth. We grow up saturated in the belief that for a woman to grow old is for her to commit some sort of crime and misdemeanor that automatically shuts her into the outer darkness and cuts her off from all gaiety and fun. We never think of an old woman enjoying life. The most we expect for her is resignation to the inevitable."

"On the contrary, we glorify the youth of women. We make it the symbol of perfect and unalloyed joy. We are forever prating about happy, carefree girlhood, and we never recognize that nine times out of ten it is the old woman who is eating her white bread instead of the girl and that grandma is a thousand times less care-burdened than granddaughter."

"My granddaughter, for instance, has so much more to worry about than I have. She is worried sick for fear she may not be invited to some party she wishes to go to; or that the right boy may not date her; or that some other girl may have a prettier dress; or that enough boys will not cut in on her dances. All of these are poignant anxieties that eat into her soul, poison her days and make her feel that it would be better to be dead than to be a wallflower at a ball, or for some commonplace youth not to come by in his roadster for her."

"But these things do not vex me because I have lived long enough to find out how few things matter, and am immune to disappointment because time has taught me if I can't do the thing I want to do I can do something else equally amusing."

Also, I have reached the time of life when men are just human beings and not potential sweethearts or husbands. No woman is ever completely happy until she is so old that she knows that no man is going to look at her, anyway, so she can dress as she pleases and let out her corset strings and eat what she likes. It is a blessed estate, believe me.

"Then, when you are old, you don't have to keep up appearances. That gives you the peace that passes all understanding. If you like pretty clothes and to be well-groomed, so much the better, of course, and you get ten times the reputation for being well-dressed that you could on the same money if you were young. But if you want to slump, let your hair go haywire and wear the same old black silk for three years at a stretch, nobody criticizes you. It is just grandma's way. You don't even have to mind your manners after you are seventy-five. Age carries with it the privilege of being cantankerous and getting by with it. And if you are amiable and sweet and don't try to boss the whole family, what a fuss they make over you!

"When you are old you can indulge yourself in doing what you want to do instead of what you should do, or what people expect you to do. You can refuse to go to dull parties. You can decline to serve on committees and to wear yourself out over nothing. You have read the classics and listened to all the uplift lectures and highbrow music, so you can read detective stories and go to the movies and popular concerts with a clear conscience. You can even have the fun of spoiling your grandchildren because their parents have the responsibility of straightening them out, and you can send them home when they get too obstreperous."

"And in old age you have the justification and the excuse for everything you do and leave undone. You can always plead that you are too old to go a hundred miles to see a disagreeable relative, but you are not too old to go on a tour around the world."

"It is because age is such a cinch, so restful and peaceful, so full of quiet pleasures that I am enjoying it so much."

Africa's Fierce Buffaloes

A few years ago some well-known African hunters and explorers were asked:

"What animal do you think is the most dangerous?"

One of the experts said the rhino was most dangerous, but there were three "votes" for the lion, the elephant and the buffalo.

The hunter followed. Suddenly the buffalo turned on him, and charged, striking him and tossing him upward by a lift of its horns. Almost by a miracle, the hunter caught hold of an overhanging branch, and clung there as tightly as he could. At this moment a Uganda native, the hunter's "gun boy," came to the rescue and fired a shot which killed the angry beast.

African buffaloes are found mostly in eastern Africa, as far north as the southern end of Ethiopia, as far south as the Cape of Good Hope. Like the lion of our continent, they are grazing animals, and in a distant way, they are related to cattle.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1937

Conflicting planetary influences are active today according to astrology. It is a day for completing work well begun and for setting relaxation.

Engineers should profit through new fields of endeavor. Those in the army are under a sway that indicates change and activity.

Lawyers and university professors now will be subject to planetary influences that inspire analytical thinking. Their opinions will be much sought after by the people.

Radio and telegraph facilities of the nation will be overburdened with messages through coming weeks as a result of intense public interest in news.

Business continues to afflict industry by the multiplication of labor troubles, which may extend in scope into the spring advance.

The navy today is under threatening portents indicating sudden orders that will conflict with well-laid plans.

Persons whose birthdate is 1895 have the augury of a year of good luck in which financial matters should be satisfactory. For some domestic problems are likely to occur.

Children born on this day probably will be self-willed, gifted and independent. Subjects of this sign of Aquarius are usually individual and daring in their life schemes.

Robert M. La Follette, U. S. senator, was born on this day, 1895. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include William M. Ewart, lawyer, 1818; Sir Henry Irving, famous English actor, 1838; and Elizabeth Patterson Bonaparte, sister-in-law of Napoleon Bonaparte, 1788.

Submerged Rock

Wrecks Old Ship

Portland, Ore., Feb. 5.—A submerged rock in the Willamette River near Oswego ten miles south of Portland wrecked the stern-wheeler Lone yesterday as the 147-foot river steamer was pushing a barge containing 400 tons of paper.

Eleven men aboard the twenty-six-year-old craft escaped an icy bath by jumping to the barge as the Lone capsized. The wreckage is on a bar near the Oswego Bridge. The superstructure and house were swept away.

The Lone was valued at $50,000.

Continue Subsidy To Tramp Shipping

British House of Commons Defeats Motion of Labor Member That Subsidy Be Discontinued; Value of Subsidy Is Pointed Out

London, Feb. 5.—A motion by Rt. Hon. Arthur Greenwood, Labor, to the effect the tramp shipping subsidy be discontinued, was defeated in the House of Commons yesterday 176 to 101. The House was discussing a resolution extending the British Shipping (Assistance) Act for twelve months.

Greenwood said the subsidy increased private benefits instead of securing reorganization of the industry and better salaries and working conditions for crews.

Sir Herbert Cayer, Conservative, cited cases in which British lines were forced to compete with other subsidized lines. The Chan Line, for one, he said, lost $250,000 in business within the last year to its United States competitors in New York and South American services.

He added British shipping had lost trade to both United States and Japanese lines because of the small subsidy granted British ships, particularly on routes which were formerly controlled by British shipping, and which British shippers hoped to regain.

GERMAN SHIPS

Sir Herbert declared it would have been better to have sunk the German ships transferred to Britain after the war inasmuch as they proved worthless.

Sir A. Anderson, Conservative, said the average subsidy granted hardly covered a sixth of the depreciation expense. Capt. Peter MacDonald, Conservative, said that after the war-time nationalization experiences of Canada, Australia and the United States, involving the loss of "hundreds of millions of pounds, nobody outside a lunatic asylum, would attempt to revive British industry in such a fashion."

On behalf of the Government, Dr. Leslie Burgin, under-secretary of the board of trade, said if foreign powers did not recognize troubles entailed by non-economic shipping, the government would have to devise more striking means of showing its resources are not exhausted.

Regarding nationalization, Burgin declared a large proportion of the some 2,300 ships built by the United States Government from 1917 to 1922 was tied up and that only forty of these ships could be used in 1935. In 1928, he said, the losses were $16,000,000 and in 1929 about $14,000,000. This figure shrank to about $4,000,000 in 1935, he said. The diminishing losses resulted from selling the ships in "block tonnage."

ICE BLOCKADE AT ST. JOHN'S

Vessels Unable to Get Into Harbor and Are Pushed to Sea by Floes

Canadian Press
St. John's, Nfld., Feb. 5.—A ice-packed ice barrier more than seven miles wide today barred St. John's Harbor to inward and outward shipping.

The Newfoundland pulp-carrier Esmond, locked in the ice three miles off shore, was no longer in sight. She had been pushed to sea by the pressure of the floes which were said would be loosened only by a change in the direction of the steadily-blowing north wind. Two colliers, whose identity was unknown, also had made off after a two-day attempt to make port.

The steamship Port Amherst, bound from New York and Halifax to Cape Spear, was three miles off Cape Spear, eight miles from the harbor, at noon yesterday but ten hours later had not made port. The steamship Newfoundland, bound to Halifax, was held in harbor as was the freighter Wisa, already delayed for repairs to damage received in an Atlantic crossing.

Isolated by the early ice invasion, a mining camp at Fleur de Lys, Green Bay, far up on the southeast coast, was short of food after the provision-laden Newfoundland Government vessel Sagana was forced to return here.

Her supplies were transferred to a train and sent to Norris Arm, almost 300 miles north of St. John's and from there they will be taken to Fleur de Lys by airplane to relieve the hungry miners.

Girl Pat Bound To French Guiana

Georgetown, British Guiana, Feb. 5.—The Grimsby trawler Girl Pat sailed again yesterday for Cayenne, French Guiana, on her second attempt to return to England by virtually the same course taken by a crew of English fishermen on a vessel, illicit cruise that ended here last June with the capture of the little fishing vessel.

Engine trouble forced the Girl Pat to return here for repairs when she set out last month on her return trip with a crew of volunteer sailors under Commander R. W. Lawrence, wartime submarine commander. The crew had been waiting here since before Christmas to sail the vessel back.

The Girl Pat was captured off Georgetown last June after her crew had stolen the schooner.

Now She Sleeps Like a Top

Tonic Way Re-makes Tired Depressed Sufferers

Why envy people who can relax like a baby and sink quickly into deep, restful slumber every night? You can do it, too, instead of tossing and turning, vainly wailing sleep while each tick of the clock seems like a minute, and minutes drag as slowly as hours. PHOSPHERINE, the great British Tonic, will help you.

"When I feel washed out," writes Mr. L. N. Gordon, Dunston-on-Tyne, England, "all I have to do to feel fine again is to take two tablets of PHOSPHERINE. A friend of mine, who seldom sleeps well, finds that by taking one tablet she sleeps like a top."

PHOSPHERINE's great success is due to the fact that it nourishes starved nerves. And when your nerves are in sound, normal condition, you drop off to sleep as nature intended you to. What's more, you wake with a feeling of renewed vigor each morning. Start taking PHOSPHERINE today. Get it from your druggist, 50c, $1.00 (4 times as much), $1.50 (8 times as much)—get this large, economical size.

FREE PORTS TALK AGAIN

Senate Gives Second Reading to Measure for Free Ports for Canada

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Feb. 5.—A measure to enable establishment of free ports in Canada, approved in the Senate and given first reading in the Commons last year, was advanced in the Upper House again yesterday when it was given second reading.

After dealing with the free ports bill and minor government business, the Senate adjourned to next Tuesday night.

The bill originated in the Senate last year, passed all stages there and was sent to the House. The House gave it first reading the last week of the session but failed to advance it further before prorogation, with the result its author had to launch it again.

Sponsored by Senator J. P. B. Casgrain, Liberal, Montreal, the bill provides provinces, municipalities or public agencies organized by either could apply to the Dominion Government for permission to organize and conduct free ports or free foreign trade zones at their own expense.

Senator Casgrain said, by the establishment of such free ports, a large assembling and trans-shipment business could be built up at the points, which would aid employment.

The bill provides goods could be received and assembled at the free ports without paying custom duty and could be re-exported to foreign countries without any Canadian duty being charged. A Canadian duty would be collected if the goods left the ports for domestic consumption.

OLD BALLOON IS LOCATED

Equipment Sent Out by U.S. Navy in 1920 Found in Ontario Woods

Canadian Press
Cochrane, Ont., Feb. 5.—Relic of a great story that held the world's interest more than sixteen years ago, a weather-beaten old balloon was reported found yesterday twenty miles north of Moosonee. It lay hidden a few yards from an Indian trail, not far from James Bay.

Valued at $5,000 when the United States navy sent it away from Rockaway Point, Long Island, New York, on an experimental flight, the balloon is valuable now as a memento of a dramatic incident in lighter-than-air travel history.

Lieut. L. A. Kloor, Lieut. Walter Hinton and Lieut. Stephen A. Farrell came down in the northern Ontario wilderness, about 1,200 miles from their starting point, on December 14, 1920. By that time all the world knew they were somewhere in Ontario. The big bag, numbered A5598, had been seen drifting northward.

For sixteen years the mystery is why Hudson's Bay Company post at Moose Factory, settlement on James Bay. But the tense and waiting word knew nothing of this—communication lines had not penetrated that far north in Ontario in 1920. Closest railway line was 175 miles south of Moose Factory.

In below-zero weather Indians carried out word of the balloonists' safety and newspaper reporters came north by the score. They met the navy airmen, tired and half frozen after the overland trip from Moose Factory, in Cochrane.

Pate of the balloon itself was looked upon as a mystery. But after sixteen years the only mystery is why Indians did not find it earlier. The tattered bag was caught in branches of a tree. The basket was on the ground.

Nobody seemed to know today what would be done with the relic.

Twenty-two to Be Air Pilots

Canadian Press
Winnipeg, Feb. 5.—Qualification of twenty-two pilots for their transport pilot's license—highest qualification granted in the Dominion—was announced today by G. A. Thompson, general manager of Canadian Airways Ltd.

Mentioning recent suggestions that Canadian pilots were unprepared for blind flying and use of instruments, Mr. Thompson said Canadian Airways pilots were trained and ready to take over the operation of high-speed transport planes if called on when any decision is made to institute a trans-Canada air service.

Similar machines to the United States transport planes were in use on the Canadian Airways Vancouver-Seattle service and the same navigation aids were being used, he added. Special instruction made the pilots ready for all flying operations.

The meeting of the Victoria and District Cornish Association, arranged for Saturday, has been cancelled.
